KNOX PROMISES HORNET AGAIN WILL HIT JAPS

Carrier Whose Planes Blasted Enemy Capital Lives Again In New Giant of Sea.

HER HISTORY RECALLED

Navy Chief Says Japan Will Feel More and Heavier U. S. Air Blows.

(By Associated Press)

NEWPORT NEWS, Va.—A great name in the history of the United States navy was reborn today with the launching of the aircraft carrier "Hornet" amid cheers of spectators who a moment later heard Secretary of Navy Knox hint broadly at plans for large scale aerial blows against Tokyo.

Last year's bombing of the Rising Sun capital was "only a small sample of far bigger raids to come," Knox asserted in a speech a moment after his wife sent a bottle of champagne foaming over the bow of the ship which replaces the flat-top of the same name sunk last year in the Santa Cruz islands.

The launching was delayed 45 minutes because of faulty functioning of the launching mechanism. A few minutes before the Hornet was to slide into the James river, J. B. Woodward, vice president and general manager of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock company, told several hundred spectators the launching would have to be postponed several days.

Later, however, he said the ceremony would proceed, that there had been no accident, but that the hydraulic pressure holding the ship in place had threatened to build up so rapidly that it was necessary to proceed with caution in the launching of such a heavy ship.

Secretary Knox recalled in his speech that the first carrier Hornet was in for the kill at Midway, covered herself with glory in the Solomons, and that from her flight

CITES DEALERS

OPA Says 2 Mansfield Stores Guilty of Shoe Violations.

Two Mansfield shoe dealers were among 48 in northeastern Ohio accused by the District Office of Price Administration today of violating regulations covering the odd-lot ration-free shoe sale arranged by the OPA during the last week of July.

The dealers have been ordered to appear at hearings on Sept. 7 and 8 in Cleveland. OPA did not reveal names of the dealers. More than 50 per cent of the dealers failed to observe the odd-lot shoe sale regulations in some manner, OPA said.

Greatest number were guilty of failing to maintain records necessary for OPA to determine whether they sold more than the quota allowed.

THEY MEAN IT

Youthful Gang Break Windows to Escape Going to School.

ENGLEWOOD, Colo. — (U.P.) — When a gang of young boys here vowed not to return to school this fall, they really meant it.

The boys laid siege yesterday to the Englewood grammar school, breaking 25 windows and inflicting other damage to the building and shouting, "Now we won't have to go back."

Today a squad of police kept a watchful eye while new windows were put in.

PLANS INQUEST

Coroner to Investigate Farnsworth Death In Hollywood.

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Coroner Frank Nance announced he would call an inquest this week in the death of Arthur Farnsworth, husband of Bette Davis, screen actress.

Farnsworth, 36, western representative of a Minneapolis firm's aeronautical division, died Wednesday after a fall on Hollywood boulevard.

Ciano Gets Away

Count Galeazzo Ciano, son-in-law of Mussolini, is reported to have escaped from Italy with his wife, Edda, and their three children and is said to have reached a haven in Germany. Ciano was a one time Mussolini's foreign minister.

MEET SOON TO FILL HOUT POST

Probate Judge, Recorder and Auditor To Pick New County Commissioner.

Probate Judge Stuart H. Cramer, Recorder Don Orewiler, and Auditor Norman L. Wolfe today planned to meet this week to name a successor to the late Ray Hout as county commissioner.

Under the provisions of Ohio law the probate judge, recorder, and auditor act as an appointing committee to fill the unexpired term of a commissioner.

No indications came from committee members today as to whom was being considered for appointment to the vacancy.

No definite date has been set for the meeting, the county officials said today, since the two remaining commissioners, Guy Stewart and C. L. Shoup, may legally enact business without the third.

Funeral services for Mr. Hout, who died Wednesday following a hernia operation, were held Saturday at the Finefrock funeral home.

Nearly 300 persons attended the services in charge of Rev. James L. Boyer, pastor of the United Brethren church. County officials served as active and honorary pallbearers.

WALKER WARNS ON YULE MAIL

Postal Chief Urges Early Mailing, Especially Overseas.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Christmas is still 117 days away, but Postmaster General Frank C. Walker urged the nation today to do its shopping early.

With millions of gifts destined for troops overseas, Walker suggested that packages earmarked for civilians be sent later to avoid congestion in the mails.

Walker warned that gifts for overseas forces must be purchased and mailed early because of the unusually heavy burden on transportation and post facilities this year.

CAPTURE 2 OF 4 FUGITIVES FROM O. S. R.

Chillicothe Police Arrest Pair Believed To Have Escaped In Funeral Car.

CHASED IN CEMETERY

Two Pals Still at Large After They Elude Officers In Eight-Hour Hunt.

Two of four Ohio State reformatory trusties who escaped from the institution last Tuesday, apparently by stealing a funeral car to elude a posse of guards, were captured in Chillicothe yesterday following an eight-hour skirmish with city and state police officers.

Held in the Chillicothe jail are Samuel Shrider, 22, and Russell Allen, 24, both of Newark. They surrendered after officers chased them through a cemetery in the southern part of the city. Both were unarmed.

Still at large are Russell Batglay, 21, of Canton, and Clarence Ramsey, 25, of Newark.

The chase in which the two were captured started at 3 a. m. yesterday when Chillicothe cruisermen became suspicious of the four occupants of a car and sought to question them.

When the police forced the car to the curb, one of the officers got out. The fugitives sped away driving down a dead-end street where they fled on foot through a cemetery. The officer on foot fired his revolver at the fleeing quartet.

Four hours later, after state highway patrolmen from the Chillicothe sub-station and additional police had been called into the search, one of the state officers picked up Allen on a downtown street. Shrider was captured an hour later in the business district by a state patrolman and a police officer.

Officers said they believed Batglay and Ramsey had fled separately, each stealing an automobile. Two cars were reported stolen in the city early yesterday. One was recovered later Sunday in Perry county, and the other was found

NAMED TO POST

Fendrick, Former Coach, New Boy Scout Field Director.

Floyd Dent, Boy Scout executive, today announced the appointment of Al Fendrick, former Madison high school coach, as field executive for the Johnny Appleseed area, Boy Scouts. He will assume his duties Wednesday, replacing D. D. Montoya, who has accepted a similar job in Youngstown.

Fendrick, who has been director of Mansfield playgrounds and recreational activities during the summer months, was coach and physical director at the Madison high school for 14 years.

His new duties consist of directing Boy Scout troops in Richland, Ashland and part of Crawford counties, and the organizing of new troops. Forty-nine Boy Scout troops will come under his direction. These include groups in Ashland, Galion, Crestline, Shelby, Lexington, Savannah, Perrysville, Nova, Ontario, Loudonville, Bellville, Plymouth and Jeromesville.

BACK BROKEN, DIES

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Thomas Johnson, 40, Hillsboro poultry dealer, died yesterday of a broken back after he was struck by an automobile Friday night.

2-Week-Old Offer To Aid City On Airport Receives No Reply

The city of Mansfield has been offered the services of an agent to appraise the 1,000 acres it seeks for development of a major airport as long as two weeks ago, but the offer was never made public by the city administration, nor has the offer yet been acknowledged.

It was reliably learned and confirmed today that James Bailey, 296 West Fourth street, former chairman and secretary of the Richland county rationing board, had submitted the proposal two weeks ago.

Bailey said he had talked to Service-Safety Director Fred B. Wolff, and had asked him to present the proposal to the mayor. Wolff was not in his office this morning and could not be reached for comment.

Bailey, formerly in the finance business here, said he was vitally interested" in seeing the development of a major port in Mansfield and offered his services after the mayor announced that a state appraiser could not be obtained to acquire the properties.

"I proposed to do the job only because I know that I could han-

Blasting Of Italy Stepped Up

The tremendous weight of Allied bombs being dropped on southern Italy has virtually isolated it from northern Italy, in the opinion of most experts. That this is the Allies' aim is evidenced in the onslaught on Foggia, Potenza, Crotone, Taranto and other cities. Attacking yesterday for the third straight day, Allied bombers hit Orte, north of Rome, as well as targets in the vicinity of Naples.

Principals, Teachers Working On Plans For School Opening

With the opening of the new school year little more than a week away, principals and teachers of Mansfield and Richland county schools today were preparing to receive thousands of boys and girls in their classes next week.

Registration is being held this week at the Mansfield Senior high school and the two junior highs, John Simpson and Johnny Appleseed, for new pupils who will attend at those buildings.

Mansfield schools open Wednesday, Sept. 8 and the majority of the county buildings begin their routine on Tuesday, Sept. 7.

It is estimated that the enrollments in Mansfield and throughout the county will be about the same as last year, according to Supt. W. L. Miller of Mansfield schools, and Supt. Boyd Robinson, of county schools.

New student residents of the Mansfield city school district, who will attend Senior high school, are to register at the school office before the beginning of school. The office is open daily, except Saturday and Sunday, from 9:30 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., and from 1:30 p. m. to 3:30 p. m.

Elementary schools will take up classes Wednesday, Sept. 8 at 9 a. m.; Senior high school, 9 a. m.; John Simpson Junior high school, 8:50 a. m., and Johnny Appleseed junior high school, 8:58 a. m. Doors will be open at all these buildings 15 minutes preceding the convening of classes.

Text books are furnished by the Mansfield school board and many new books have been purchased for the coming year. Other school supplies are to be purchased at bookstores.

Dem Committee Meets Tuesday On Cave Successor

Steps were taken by the Richland county Democratic executive committee today to fill the position of committee chairman left vacant by the recent resignation of Frank Cave, now Mansfield's acting postmaster.

Cave submitted his resignation to Acting Secretary Mary Newcomer soon after the committee endorsed him for the position of acting postmaster, to replace the later Herman E. Homberger.

Since no meeting of the committee has been held since it is expected that the resignation will be accepted at the meeting called for Tuesday evening in the common pleas courtroom in the courthouse.

It was announced that plans will also be made at the meeting for completing the Democratic slate in the township and village elections this fall. To date only 16 petitions have been filed for 170 township and village offices. Deadline for filing petitions which do not require party affiliation, is Friday at 6:30 p. m.

GOING HIGHER

State Expected To Pile Up Even Larger Surplus.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The state government, which began 1943 with a surplus of approximately $45,000,000, may end the year with a surplus of $65,000,000, Financial Director H. D. Defenbacher said today.

An unexpected rise in sales tax revenue is partly responsible for the increase, he said. Income from the tax for the first seven months of this year exceeded estimated by $9,000,000.

Only liquor revenues dropped below the estimates of the administration's financial experts. The income from this source was $953,472 under estimates.

CAREER AT END

Wooster Editorial Writer Retires After 40 Years On Job.

WOOSTER — (U.P.) — A. R. Williams, veteran Buckeye newspaperman and editorial writer for the Wooster Record, has retired after a newspaper career of more than 40 years.

Williams began his career in Sandusky in 1900. He later was employed at Orrville and then became editor of the Norwalk Reflector. He joined the Wooster Daily News in 1914. He continued with the Record, the paper which emerged from the consolidation of the News and the Republican.

NAZIS FIRE ON DANES FLEEING MILITARY RULE

SCUTTLED NAVY IN FLAMES

Bulgarian Premier Strives To End Unrest In Balkans After King's Death.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(U.P.)—A high Danish source here received word today that German occupation forces had arrested all active army and navy officers in Denmark, estimated to total 1,500.

(By Associated Press)

STOCKHOLM — Big fires blazed fiercely today among the scuttled hulks of Denmark's naval vessels in Copenhagen harbor, and offshore Nazi patrol boats and planes shot at Danes fleeing a new German military dictatorship clamped on the rebellious kingdom.

Refugees streaming into Sweden said scores of persons drowned as Nazi gunners sank many small motorboats, sailboats and fishing smacks in the Oeresund between Denmark and Sweden.

The Germans ignored the usual Copenhagen blackout during the night. Street lights blazed brightly as patrols in tanks and armored cars toured the city enforcing the martial law decreed by the German military commander who had interned the aged King Christian X in his castle and set up Nazi rule to replace that of the resigned Danish government.

The fires in the harbor area could be seen from the Swedish coast. A series of explosions set them off at dawn yesterday as Danish naval forces sent the greater part of their small navy to the bottom.

The Germans' drastic action was the upshot of a series of violent disorders in the tiny country during the past two weeks.

Nine naval ships, two of them destroyers, reached Swedish ports yesterday. Another torpedo boat arrived at Landskrona last night, raising to 10 the number now docked in Sweden.

One of the latest reports reaching Sweden said members of the cabinet, including Prime Minister Eric Scavenius, were in internment with King Christian X at Sorgenfri castle.

The cabinet conferred with the king until the early hours Sunday before Gen. Hermann Von Hannecken, German commander in Denmark, issued his proclamation at 4:10 a. m. announcing Nazi martial law.

The king threatened to abdicate if the cabinet accepted a drastic ultimatum submitted by German Minister Werner Best on

ELEANOR PAYS MARINES A CALL

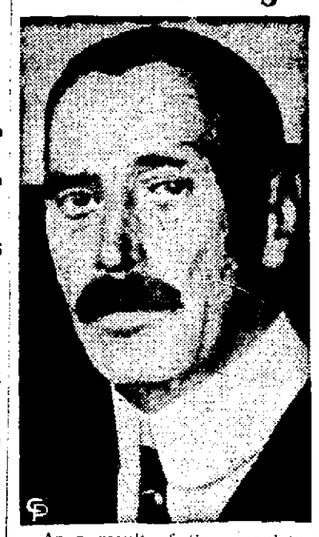
Visits Camp Hospital, Chats With Sick And Wounded.

WELLINGTON, N. Z. — (U.P.) — Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt visited the hospital at a large marine camp in the Wellington district today, chatting and joking with American fighting men.

She talked informally with the men as she walked through the wards. She was particularly interested in men suffering from malaria and told them her son, Lieut. Col. James Roosevelt, had been ill of the disease.

The first lady had climaxed a busy Sunday with a speech in which she expressed hope that the statesmen who write the peace will accede to the wishes of the peoples of all the world.

Interned King



As a result of the complete military occupation of Denmark by German troops, following the revolt of the Danes against their Nazi masters, King Christian is reported being held a prisoner by the Germans.

WRECK ITALIAN RAIL JUNCTION

Fortresses Batter Orte as Air Assault Goes Into Third Straight Day.

(By United Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NORTH AFRICA—American Flying Fortresses wrecked the Orte railroad junction 40 miles north of Rome yesterday in the third straight day of attacks designed to smash the capital's communications with the rest of Italy in advance of a possible Allied invasion, it was revealed today.

(Radio Algiers said in a broadcast beamed to Italy that Allied amphibitious forces may strike Italy in the north as well as in the south and warned that air and naval units are ready for a "new offensive which may start where and when they wish.")

Hundreds of explosive and fire bombs dropped by the big four-engined bombers ripped up tracks, blew up freight cars and set fire to other installations at Orte, junction of the Rome-Florence line and a spur line to Terni in the interior.

While the Forts concentrated on Rome's railway arteries, American Marauder medium bombers renewed their assault on Torre Annunziata, west coast railway center on the bay of Naples south of Mt. Vesuvius, yesterday and

BANS FLIGHTS

Goebbels Orders Berliners To Remain Within City.

LONDON—(AP)—A mass migration of Berlin residents to the fields and forests surrounding the city to escape future Allied air raids has been barred by Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels, according to dispatches from Spain.

Goebbels' instructions are that "nobody in Berlin may leave his home at night without an approved reason," the Berlin correspondent of the Madrid newspaper ABC said, explaining that the rule was adopted to force all residents to help clean up the damage following attacks.

Although the city has been spared for the past few nights no one expected the immunity to last and the Spanish correspondent noted the population was bitterly despondent and weary.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Secretary of State Cordell Hull today angrily branded as "monstrous and diabolical falsehoods" charges by certain news and radio commentators that he and others in the state department "actually wish the Soviet union to be bled white."

FLIGHT PERILS ENTIRE GERMAN ARMY IN SOUTH

Surprise Retreat Under Way as Berlin Admits Troops Have Quit Taganrog.

RED ADVANCE CONTINUES

800,000 Nazis In Donets Basin Facing Encirclement as Russians Drive on.

BULLETIN

LONDON — (AP) — Premier Josef Stalin announced the capture of Taganrog, southern anchor of the 1,500-mile Russian front, today in a special order of the day.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON — The Germans announced today the abandonment of Taganrog, southern anchor of the 1,500-mile Russian front, in a surprise retreat indicating the Nazis' entire southern front positions are crumbling.

With the fall of this important Sea of Azov port to the victoriously onrushing Red army, the capture of Stalino, Hitler's southern front headquarters 70 miles to the northwest, may follow soon.

Taganrog, said the Germans in their daily high command communique, was "evacuated according to plan" after being "completely destroyed."

The fall of Taganrod came as a surprise, since there had been no reports of heavy fighting in this region recently from either Moscow or Berlin, but the position of the city had been obviously imperiled since the Russians captured the railway station of Donetsko-Amvrosievka just a week ago, cutting Taganrog's only rail line to the north and west. Donetsko-Amvrosievka is 40 miles of Taganrod.

Evacuation of Taganrod makes it clear that the whole right flank of the German army is compromised and indicates that a general pulling back, started with the Soviet offensive in the Donets basin a few days ago, has been stepped up.

There was no immediate indication whether the Germans would attempt to stand a few miles west of Taganrog on the west bank of the Mius river, or withdraw some 60 miles farther to the west to Mariupol.

Taganrog, a city with a normal population of 70,000, was taken by the Germans early in the summer of 1942 after changing hands twice in 1941.

The Soviet communique today indicated that fast-moving Soviet columns south and west of Kharkov are threatening 800,000 Nazi troops in the Donets basin salient with possible encirclement.

Allies Repulsed On New Guinea By Sharp Jap Attack

(By Associated Press)

Allied troops closing in upon Salamaua in New Guinea have been pushed back slightly at some points by hard Japanese attacks, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced today, but in the Solomons to the east allied forces have gone ashore unopposed on Arundel Island.

Ground forces "are now consolidated" after the Friday landing on Arundel that until recently harbored Japanese units. Arundel lies just west of New Georgia Island, and puts the Allies within artillery range of the enemy on Kolombangara.

Reveal Fortresses Downed 307 Nazi Planes In 2 Raids

(By United Press)

LONDON—A smashing American victory in one of the war's greatest air battles was revealed today in official reports showing 307 Nazi fighter planes were destroyed by Flying Fortresses in two raids on southern Germany Aug. 17.

Doubtful or probable claims were not included, nor were the 20 enemy planes shot down by escorting Thunderbolts and the damage to the Luftwaffe when the fliers destroyed a Messerschmitt factory at Regensburg in one of the raids.

The reports came during a comparative lull in the mounting blows on Hitler's Europe. The RAF was idle for the second straight night, probably because of bad weather, and a Berlin broadcast said only a few raiders appeared over western Germany.

Yesterday fighter craft hit at railroad and canal targets in France and northwest Germany, damaging several locomotives and barges and destroying an enemy fighter. One plane was missing.

The attacks on Rosenburg and Schweinfurt on Aug. 17 cost the American air force 59 bomb-

Fisher Sees No Chance For Changing Ration Rule.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Wives who wish to buy liquor undoubtedly will have to continue calling in person at the liquor store.

It is extremely unlikely, Liquor Director Don A. Fisher said today, that husbands ever will be permitted to make purchases on their wives' liquor ration cards —or vice versa.

The director polled liquor rationing states for their sentiments on joint use of ration cards and most of them replied "by all means keep your present regulation," he said.

CHAMP 'SHORT SNORTER'

OAKLAND, Cal. —(U.P.)— Maj. Donald Green, 26, home on leave as a fighter pilot in the southern Pacific, claims to be the world's champion "Short Snorter." He brought with him a five-foot string of English, Canadian, Egyptian, New Caledonian, American, Russian and japanese bills all signed by more than 100 other "Short Snorters," all members of the aerial force who have a combined 300 Japanese victories to their credit.

HITS PROPAGANDA DRIVE

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Chairman Fulmer (D-S. C.) of the house agriculture committee said last night that big war contractors were busily propagandizing for repeal of the war profits renegotiation act, "to get away with untold profits," and predicted they would succeed.

PRE-NUPTIAL PARTY GIVEN FOR MISS BOGAN

Miss Adaline Wilging, Miss Patricia Stuhldreher, Miss Lillian Art Entertain for Bride-Elect Sunday At Wilging Home.

THE first in a series of pre-nuptial events for Miss Ethel Mae Bogan, bride-elect of Cpl. Gene Cusic, was a lovely dessert bridge held Sunday afternoon at the home of Miss Adaline Wilging, 616 Marion avenue. Associate hostesses for the miscellaneous shower were Miss Patricia Stuhldreher and Miss Lillian Art. Following the guests' arrival, the honoree was presented a corsage of gardenias. Bouquets of garden flowers were arranged throughout the house.

Bridge was the diversion of the afternoon. High score prizes were awarded to Miss Marjorie Scott and Miss Jennie Lou Gannaway.

During the afternoon, alarm clocks rang at intervals, when Miss Bogan hunted for her many gifts which were hidden in different rooms. The hostesses presented her with a gift of china.

Following bridge, dessert was served, buffet style, from a long table centered with a two tiered wedding cake, decorated with pink and green, with the names of Miss Bogan and Cpl. Cusic. Lighted tapers in crystal candle holders completed the pink and green setting of the table. Miss Joan Watson, sorority sister of the honoree, poured.

Although the date of the wedding is indefinite, the couple plan to exchange vows some time during the month of September, depending upon the arrival of Cpl. Cusic from the army air base at Alliance, Neb.

Post-Nuptial Shower Fetes Mrs. Harry Massa

THE first in a series of post-nuptial showers, given in honor of Mrs. Harry Massa, the former Katherine Malone, was held last evening at the home of Miss Doris McKnight, in the form of a bedroom shower. Associate hostess at the party was Miss Rose Swoyer.

Bridge and hearts were in session during the evening. Prizes for high scores were won by Miss Louise Enderle and Miss Marge Hegnauer, who presented them to the honoree.

Refreshments were served at a late hour, when the recent bride found a note in a cake which centered the table, telling her where she would find her gifts.

The hostesses presented her with a chenille bed spread.

Schedule of Events

TUESDAY

Ruth Circle of the First Christian church—Mrs. E. P. Cook, Rowland avenue, hostess.

American Legion Auxiliary Bridge club—Mrs. Harvey Burghard, hostess, at the Legion home.

Entertain For Mervin Scott

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Scott of Epworth entertained Sunday afternoon and evening in honor of their son, Mervin, who was home for the week-end from Ambridge, Pa.

After a buffet supper, the evening was spent informally.

Guests in attendance included Mr. and Mrs. Nyle Oswalt and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Rodeheaver, Mrs. Walter Boals, Mrs. Clara Lawrence, Mrs. Virginia Pierce, the Misses Phyllis and Pauline Pierce, A. D. Nerschler, and Mrs. Elta Streb.

Parents Tell Of Betrothal At Sunday Party

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Hughes, Cook road, are today announcing the engagement of their daughter, Olive Jean, which was revealed at a lovely party given last evening at the Hughes home. Miss Hughes is betrothed to Midshipman Richard P. Bailey, son of Rev. and Mrs. P. O. Bailey of Elmhurst, Ill., and grandson of the late Rev. W. E. Bailey, former pastor of the South Main Evangelical church.

Bunco was played during the evening. Prizes were won by Miss Betty Murray and Miss Pauline Hockett.

Luncheon was served at a long table centered with a water lily pond. Pastel shades were used in the appointments. The announcement of the engagement was found in the nut cups, used for favors.

The bride to be is a senior at North Central college in Naperville, Ill. Mr. Bailey graduates from Notre Dame as an ensign, Sept. 22. A definite date has not been set for the wedding.

Meat Can Be Stretched

By BETSY NEWMAN

I'm giving you a recipe new to me today, and am wondering if you will like it. It's worth trying to get a new flavor, and it stretches 1 pound of hamburg and 2 eggs to serve six to eight persons—which is quite a stretch.

Today's Menu.

Modern Beef Hash
Harvard Beets
Tossed Vegetable Salad
Deep Plum Pie Coffee

Modern Beef Hash.

2 cups self-rising cake flour
2 eggs, separated
1¼ cup milk
1 tsp. salt.
1 lb. ground raw beef
¼ lb. vitamin margarine
Pepper

Sift and measure cake flour, add egg yolks which have been beaten and mixed with the milk. Mix until smooth and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. To hamburg (made of neck, chuck or flank) add salt, stir, cook meat in margarine only until it separates into crumbs; then pour batter over hot margarine and meat and season with a dash of pepper. When mixture begins to frizzle around the edges and thicken on the bottom, turn over and chop with spatula or pancake turner. Keep turning and chopping until lightly browned and small balls have formed. Over medium heat it will take about 10 minutes. The mixture will resemble hashed brown potatoes. You can use bacon fat instead of margarine if you prefer.

SUMMER MEALS

Hot weather is no excuse for the disappearance of hot meals. Eating habits cannot be radically changed on short notice without danger of a digestive upset, and Mrs. Julia Kiene, head of the home economics department at Westinghouse, says it is hunting for trouble to serve entirely cold meals to a family accustomed to hot food. Oven meals, one-dish surface meals and deep-well cooker dishes strike a happy medium—they are nutrition-wise, yet keep you from spending too much time in the kitchen.

Modes of the Moment

Harper's Bazar, London

BRITISH COUPON-STRETCHER: Above you see a young lady wearing half of her week-end wardrobe, a Quaker gray polka dotted skirt and bolero, apricot yellow shirt and terra cotta cummerbund. For evening, she changes to an ankle-length skirt.

Wedding Follows Sunday Services At Methodist Church

AN OPEN church service, following the regular morning address at the First Methodist church at 11:30 Sunday, united in marriage Miss Mary E. Denius of Crestview road, Columbus, and Lieut. Richard E. Coe, of this city.

Rev. S. Lee Whiteman, jr., assisted by Rev. John Pfahler of Killbourne, read the nuptial service.

A program of organ music preceding the ceremony was played by Mrs. Elsie Ireland.

The bride wore an aqua blue ensemble, with which she wore a brown hat and other brown accessories. Her shoulder corsage was of gardenias. The couple was unattended.

Immediately after the ceremony, a wedding breakfast in honor of the newlyweds was served at the home of the bridegroom's father, V. D. Coe, 35 Brickman avenue.

Lieut. and Mrs. Coe are now in Detroit, Mich., and after their wedding trip they will reside near Camp Custer, in Michigan, where Lieut. Coe is stationed.

The bride is a graduate of Ohio State university. She has been employed at the Huntington National bank in Columbus. Before entering the armed forces, Lieut. Coe also attended Ohio State.

Out of town guests at the wedding were the bridegroom's sister, Miss Eleanor Coe of Akron, and Yoland Gilbert of Flint, Mich.

LOOKS AREN'T DECEIVING

Vegetables aren't fresh unless they look fresh, plump, full bodied, not wilted and shriveled, says Mrs. Julia Kiene, director of Westinghouse home economics institute. She adds that pods of peas, lima beans and such should be moist, not dry, and well filled. Leafy vegetables are best if leaves are young, unwilted and free from yellowness.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, August 31.

The auguries for this day carry excellent encouragement and incentive for important operations of both a public or private nature. This in business, finance, work or professional objectives, with significant promise and cooperation for utilizing creative forces and material resources. It may be well to confer with higher-ups or those more influential, who may easily recognize and support real merit and substantial propositions, even though they have exceptional angles or speculative culminations. This may demand a general uprooting, or a revision of ways and means, but in the end logic and executive ability should win fine results and satisfactions.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a really progressive and stabilizing climax to the affairs, although they may start out with perplexity disintegration, change and much speculation as to future issues. But logic, shrewd tactics, clever executive ability in presenting and promoting innovations or new propositions should win the support of influential personages, with capital as well as friendly interest.

FETE BRIDE-ELECT WITH LINEN SHOWER

Hostesses Honoring Miss Mary Fenner Ars Mrs. William Lichtle sr., and Mrs. William Wickiser; Couple Will Wed Sept. 6.

MISS MARY FENNER, bride-elect of Clarence Lichtle, was honored Saturday evening with a linen shower, given at the home of Mrs. William Lichtle, sr. Mrs. Lichtle was assisted by her daughter, Mrs. William Wickiser.

Games were played during the evening. Prizes were won by Miss Angelyn Fazic and Mrs. Sam Fazic, who presented them to the bride-to-be. Three-year-old Patty Lou Wickiser presented the honoree's many gifts to her.

Luncheon was served late in the evening, buffet style. The hostesses presided at the refreshment table.

Out-of-town guests present were Mrs. Karl Fenner, the Misses Sally and Carolyn Fenner, the Misses Margaret and Ann Turson, Miss Angelyn Fazic, and Mrs. Sam Fazic, all of Plymouth.

Miss Fenner and Mr. Lichtle will wed September 6 at the St. Peter's Catholic church at 9:30 a. m.

Obesity Is a Health Menace Says Expert

By MME. QUI VIVE

Heavyweights no longer fall for freak diets. They have learned too much about food values and the need of balanced meals, to take a chance at injuring their health. Fat has been a long time coming; it isn't going to scram in a hurry. Enthusiasts who have gone in for rapid reducing, through methods of semi-starvation, have found themselves with younger looking bodies, but older looking faces. A big price to pay to be rid of one's superfluous curves.

Years ago, the medical profession smiled at the fat lady and said "You're healthy; why worry about a few extra pounds?" But not now. The family Doc will listen to his patient. He will take her blood pressure. If he finds it is high, he will insist that she lose a certain number of pounds.

"Anything wrong with the heart? All right, lady, you go on a diet." Lugging around extra tonnage is hard work, a strain on the heart and other organs. Anyhow, what's the fun of joining up with slow moving traffic? That's Plumpie's lot. Outdoor sports are not for her; too much effort. If she dances, she thinks everybody is looking at her, feeling sorry for the partner that has to drag her around the floor.

Reducing should start with a physical examination. Occasionally the source of over expansion may be traced to a glandular disturbance.

The correct diet must contain proper proportions of carbohydrates, proteins and fats. Any general practitioner will offer menus for a week that will supply sufficient energy for ordinary activities, and yet leave no groceries to be tucked away in the form of fat cells. Calories must be somewhat below her needs, so she will burn up adipose tissue. Instead of impairing the health, this diet will impart a sense of well being. Diet restrictions must be followed to the letter. It may entail a little extra cooking, but what of that? Rationing is helping the poor dear to cut down on fats; the doctor will do the rest.

She must avoid pastries; they contain everything she shouldn't have, except in the smallest amounts — fats, sweets and starches.

Women who tend to accumulate fat are usually finicky eaters. Do we hear howls from the grandstand? Never mind. They must train their appetites to enjoy food that does not build adipose tissue. It can be done. Just as the thinnies love pickles and lettuce, so the fatties could live on potatoes, bread, butter, cream and cereals — all fat building foods.

Reducing is possible without exercising, though a ten minute workout every morning will aid and abet the slimming campaign. Deep breathing is recommended. Torso-twisting will do away with mid-section spread.

Yard Picnics Best Way To Save On Gas

Backyard picnics came into their own this year. Gas rationing and the tire shortage make our favorite picnic spots almost inaccessible, but many homemakers are finding that the backyard, as a substitute, is not bad at all.

There's something about eating out of doors that makes food taste better. In fact, when you find yourself running short of rationing coupons, take your family to the backyard for a completely point-free picnic, and chances are they'll enjoy the meal without even so much as noticing the absence of meat and other rationed items from the menu.

No picnic is complete without bottled soft drinks, of course. Have a sufficient supply of these beverages and be sure that they're chilled to the right degree for maximum enjoyment. They'll add sparkle and zest to the entire meal.

Home baked beans are another picnic "must." They will take care of your hot dish. Chicken salad and peanut butter sandwiches, pickles, celery, raw carrots, deviled eggs, fruit and cookies will complete the menu.

It sounds good, doesn't it? It's a particularly satisfactory menu because it's more than adequate, it's tasty and completely point-free besides. So give your family a treat and your ration book a rest, and enjoy a picnic in your own backyard.

FRESH BERRIES

Berries shouldn't be washed until just before serving. If very ripe when you buy or pick them, Westinghouse home economists recommend putting them on a platter and covering lightly with wax paper. Store on next to bottom shelf of the refrigerator until ready to use.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"Ask him from what location he's calling," my father said imperturbably.

Dicky turned back to the telephone and put the question. Then, after listening to the answer, again told Ronald to "wait a second," and turned again to my father.

"From a drugstore about two miles from here."

"Downtown, or uptown?"

"Downtown."

"Ah-h!" my father breathed. Then he spoke crisply.

Olga Take Hint.

"Tell him to come up here as quickly as a taxi will bring him," he instructed, and as Dick turned once more to the telephone, I saw him glance significantly at Philip Veritzen. But it was Olga who took the hint most quickly.

"It was so good of you, Charles," she said rising, "to let us hear all the stirring happenings of this morning. But now we must go back. We have work to do, and, besides, that unhappy young man, Ronald, will wish to see you by yourself."

"You have an understanding mind—and heart, Olga," my father said approvingly. He accompanied the three Veritzens to the door and ushered them out, turning back, when he had shut it, to Dicky, who by this time had hung up the receiver.

"Ronald's coming up here directely," Dicky reported, "and wishes to talk to you with only Madge present. He was apologetic to me, but firm."

He quirked a mirthful eyebrow at Katharine.

"How are you at tiddledywinks or checkers, Katrina?" he asked. "It strikes me that we'd better adjourn to the connecting suite and invite our souls until Ronald has a chance to unburden his."

Katharine settled more comfortably in her chair and grinned companionably back at him. It heartened me to see how her spirits were soaring with my father's assurance that it would be only a few more hours before the menace of Ruth Hayes was removed, and the way made clear for her reunion with Jack.

"I'm especially good at both," she assured him, "but I'm most comfortable here, and we surely don't need to move until Ronald is announced."

"Of course not," my father said promptly. "And there is a loose end or two we perhaps can tie up. But first, Richard, did Ronald give you any indication as to why he wanted to see me?"

"No, but he was so terribly excited it seemed to indicate that he had what he thought was information about Marion."

"Oh perhaps Carolyn," Katharine suggested.

"Exactly," my father said. "Information concerning either of them would upset Ronald. But I think before he gets here, I had better talk to Harry—guardedly, of course—and find out if he has any idea why Ronald should be excited."

"Good idea!" Dicky commented. "Shall I call him?"

"Please," my father said, and then we all listened to a one-sided telephone conversation, which, nevertheless, gave us a good idea of what Harry Underwood, Marion's anxious step-father, was saying.

"Hello!" Dicky began. "You needn't answer this question except by yes or no, but have you any idea why the young man sharing your home should be violently excited this morning? No? Yes, he is. How long since you saw him? So? Well, he's headed this way, asking for a private interview with the Chief. Sure, I'll call you back when I find out what it's all about. So long."

He hung up the receiver and turned back to us.

Not Disturbed Then.

"Ronald left the house less than an hour ago, according to Harry," he said, "and he gave no indication whatever of being disturbed at that time. So whatever upset him must have happened since he left the house."

"Therefore," I said, "it didn't come by letter or telegram."

"A very logical deduction," my father said, smiling at me. "And that leaves a puzzle indeed for us."

Katharine rose with decision.

"Come on, Dicky-bird!" she said. "I never was any good at puzzles. Bring on the checkers and let's transfer ourselves to the next apartment."

They went away. I think to my father's secret relief, and then he and I waited in silence until Ronald was announced.

I think my father was as shocked as I was at his ghastly pale face and his terrified excitement. No sooner had the door closed behind him than he rushed up to me and clasped me tightly as if for support.

"Aunt Madge!" he cried hoarsely. "I just saw Marion!"

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

REGULATING THE DEAL

Questions regarding various situations connected with the deal are covered very clearly in the new Laws of Contract Bridge. Among the important ones are these:

1. The pack originally belonging to a side may be reclaimed, but a deal may not be stopped to effect restoration, irrespective of when it was claimed.

2. In the event of a new deal: (a) The same dealer redeals, unless his attempt was out of rotation, in which case the deal reverts to the player whose turn it was to deal, and (b) the same pack is used, unless it was incorrect, or was reclaimed as provided in the previous section, and (c) there is a new shuffle by the dealer, and a new cut by the player on his right.

3. There may not be a new deal during the deal except as provided in the next two sections, and a deal which stands, stands as a correct deal made in rotation.

4. If a player is dealing out of rotation or with an uncut pack, any player may, before the last card is dealt, require a new deal.

5. There must be a new deal if it is ascertained, before the last card is dealt: (a) That the cards have not been dealt as provided by the laws, (b) that a card is faced in the pack or elsewhere, or (c) that a player has seen and can correctly name two or more cards dealt or to be dealt to another player.

6. As to the proprieties of the deal, the dealer should refrain from (a) looking at the bottom card before completing the deal, (b) tilting a card upwards or otherwise allowing one to be seen. (This may impose an unpleasant duty on another player.) The other players should refrain from touching or looking at their cards until the deal is completed. Such action may be embarrassing if it results in facing a card.

HELL AND HIGH WATER

By William McLeod Raine

(Copyright, 1943)

CHAPTER VIII

"I'm glad I was able to save you last night," he said smoothly. "Too bad you have made the Hickorys your enemies. I'll give you a word of advice, Lee. You are young and too headstrong. Clear out of this country. Go back to Texas. Indians are good haters. They don't forget."

Bob said, "Thank you."

"This is a wild country, dangerous for an inexperienced man. I have known of several men who disappeared here.

"Killed by the Hickorys?" Bob asked.

"No, no! What I am trying to tell you is that you can't go around with a chip on your shoulder and get away with it. But it is your own business. If you won't take a kindly warning from an older man you will have to go your own way."

"I reckon I will," Bob assented. "It is nice of you to try to look out for such a bullnecked galoot."

Sugg said no more. He took his seat in the stage, and a minute later it rolled away. Bob watched it go, a puzzled frown on his face. Something queer was in the air. He did not know what it was, but he was coming to the opinion that Sugg was implicated in it. J. A. ought not to let the scoundrel court Willie May. As soon as he saw the old man he would tell him how thick the promoter was with the Hickorys.

From behind the fence back of the Buffalo Skull corral Bob Lee watched Jake and Ed Hickory saddle their mounts and ride out-of-town along the road the others in their outfit had taken. He noted that Todd was not in charge of the wagon yard. Probably the Arkansan's shift was over and he had gone home without knowing that the Hickorys had been in town. Bob hoped so. He did not want Todd frightened into making another move before he came back to get him. Having ample time he decided to check on that.

When he reached the little adobe house beside the mill Todd was still sleeping. A gaunt woman in a patched dress was hanging clothes on a line. On the doorstep a small boy was playing with a pup. Bob introduced himself.

Mrs. Todd looked at him resentfully from a leathery tanned face. "I wish you hadn't told Homer about that Indian Hightower," she told him reproachfully. "Soon as I saw him I knew something had upset him terrible. He was 'most sick. Couldn't eat his breakfast. There ain't a thing he can do about it. He is lucky that mess of Hickorys didn't kill him to make sure he wouldn't testify against them."

He guessed she had been dipping snuff, but at sight of him had concealed the evidence. Now her bleak eyes looked at him scoffingly: "Mebbe they wouldn't invite schoolboys to be there when they murdered him."

Bob laughed. "In Texas we grow up quick, ma'am. Some of us young fellows throw a bigger shadow than you'd think."

"Anyway, it's over now. Homer had no call to get mixed up in such doings. Like as not this Hightower had done them a meanness."

"Cle Hightower is my best friend," Bob said simply. "He's straight as a string. He can run away, but he won't. He will show up to be shot when the time comes."

She stared at him. "You mean he can light a shuck, and won't go."

"Yes. That's his idea of Choctaw honor. He wouldn't be in this jam if he hadn't been driving you folks to find a doctor for yore sick baby."

Anger flared in her: "Why do you come here and bother us when we were shet of the trouble? It can't do the Indian any good now. Homer did right not to stay and get killed in a fuss that wasn't any of his."

Bob did not argue with her. He said he had business that would take him away for a few days. When he returned he hoped to see them again.

She put a hand on his arm. "Don't get the wrong idee about Homer and me, Mr. Lee. We're decent folks. Both of us feel awful bad about what's happened. He was trying to help us when he got into this trouble. If there was anything we could do for him we'd certainly do it."

"The only way to save him is to get evidence to show he didn't start the shooting," the rider pointed out.

Her answer flashed at him quickly. A faint flush appeared in her sallow face. "I won't have you trying to talk Homer into going back there. You could prob'ly do it. He's been worried ever since he lit out from Four Corners. If he went back it wouldn't do any good now. You keep away from him."

"I'm leaving today," he told her. Before he swung to the saddle he gave the youngster twenty-five cents to buy stick candy. The boy looked as if he had been left a fortune.

At Shawnee Bob picked up news of the riders in front of him. Two of them had stopped at a blacksmith shop to have the shoes of a horse changed. They were going to Kingfisher to take over a farm their father had just left them, one of the men said. The smith told Bob the men were Indians, but not fullbloods. Later in the day the JAB rider lost track of the outlaws. They were somewhere in the wilderness ahead of him, but he had no way of knowing whether they were pointed for Guthrie or Chandler. Kingfisher he thought a less likely destination, since one of them had named it.

He camped out on a flat that night beside a small creek. A fire of cottonwood branches served both for cooking and to keep him warm. Beneath the stars he rolled up in a blanket. Sleep deserted him for a time. His mind was busy with the probabilities. This trailing the Hickorys was very likely a silly business. They were moving into a more settled country, one in which a cattle raid would be more dangerous and less likely to be successful. Why come nearly two hundred miles to do what could be done more safely much nearer home?

Suddenly he sat bolt upright. It was going to be a bank or a train robbery. If the errand of these men were harmless they would be riding together and would not pretend to be strangers to each other. Sugg's anxiety to keep peace, their willingness to let him sway them, the presence of so many of them, all suggested an enterprise both lawless and important.

Excitement raced through his blood. He had thought of nothing so daring and lawless as this, and on reflection was inclined to reject the conjecture. Sugg would not be in anything like this, not with the Hickorys. Even though the man was unscrupulous, he did not travel such trails. It was safer to promote worthless mines and to wrangle leases from drunken Choctaw or Cherokees. He used the Hickorys as political gangsters, but that was different from a partnership in banditry.

Yet Bob was not satisfied with this more reasonable explanation. He had never understood why the Hickorys had taken so tamely Sugg's interference at the dance. It was not like them to let somebody knock one of them down and to submit to curt crisp orders. Bob began to wonder whether Sugg was not the leader of the gang, a man moving in a respectability and so able to pick up profitable information of robberies.

At midnight he got up to renew the fire. A coyote on a nearby hill sent its barking challenge into the night. Bob rolled up again. The sun was high in the sky when he awoke.

He reached Guthrie that night, after loitering several hours in a draw not far from town. He did not want to arrive in the daytime. If the Hickorys knew he was here there would be small chance of finding out what they had in mind.

Bob's two or three cautious inquiries brought no news of the men he was trailing. He slept in the hay at the wagon yard where he stabled Blaze. At a hardware store next morning he learned that a redbearded man had bought some cartridges for a Winchester. Another man had been with him, but he had stayed outside and held the horses.

"Might have been the friends I'm lookin' for," Bob said. "This guy with the red beard—can you kinda describe him?"

"Red face, pop eyes, had a big barrel body."

"And a sort of whispering voice?"

"That's the fellow. They pulled out of here yesterday not long after noon."

"What road did they take?"

"North road. He said they had railroad jobs at Caldwell."

"Much obliged."

Bob stood on the sidewalk in front of the store and watched traffic flow past. A covered wagon—a freight outfit—cowboys with jingling spurs—a hoe man in town to buy supplies for his family—women in poke bonnets and others in attractive ruffled skirts and puffed sleeves.

He paid little attention to them. What filled his mind was his fool enterprise. How was he helping Cle Hightower by spying on the Hickory outfit? There was not a chance in a hundred that he could find out anything to aid his friend. Maybe he had better return to Tecumseh, pick up Todd and set out for home. But he had an unhappy feeling that the evidence of the mover, even if he gave it freely and without pressure, would not be enough to save Cle. The preponderance of testimony would still be against the condemned man. Some obstinate instinct kept prodding him to follow the Hickorys.

Before quitting town Bob chanced on news of two more of the gang. Two big rangy fellows, part Indian, one of them wearing a rattlesnake skin for a hat band, had stopped at a dry goods store to buy a yard of print cotton goods. The clerk from whom Lee learned this gave a description of the men that fitted Jake and Ed Hickory. The description of the hat band was convincing enough. It fitted Ed's sombrero. The purchase of the cotton goods puzzled him. One yard was not enough for a dress for a girl friend.

An impulse prodded him. He told the clerk he would like to look at the bolt from which the yard had been cut. The pattern showed sprigs of rosebuds. Lee bought a half yard of it. As the clerk wrapped it up he could not hold back his curiosity.

"What in heck you fellows going to do with this cloth?" he asked.

Bob grinned. "Just a souvenir of Guthrie."

He jogged north and at Mulhall was met by sensational news. A passenger train had just brought the body of the express messenger and wounded engineer. A gang of bandits had held up the train at a tank station twelve miles north. They had got away with a large amount of gold and greenbacks.

Lee circulated among the passengers and the train crew, picking up information. A posse was being organized here. Word came from Perry, Pawnee and Stillwater that officers at these points were gathering men for the chase.

Bob set out for the scene of the hold-up.

Have you ever heard of Hilda the Bell Ringer?

You have if you followed the crazy career of the Brooklyn Bums during the halcyon days of Leland Stanford (Larry) McPhail.

Those were the good old days before Branch Rickey succeeded McPhail and began turning the beloved Bums into the more dignified Dodgers again.

In the days of the Bums, Brooklyn fans were known far and wide for rabid fanaticism. And most famous of all was Hilda the Bell Ringer.

You've probably seen pictures of Hilda and her cowbell in the picture magazines, the bell held high, and clanging, and Hilda's mouth wide open, but wide, shouting encouragement in a loud and raucous voice at her Bums.

Hilda is a gal who lives only for her Bums, and she is apt to turn up at any ball park in the National league, with her cowbell clanging, and her mouth wide open, cheering for the Bums. And few are the games she has missed in recent years when the Bums are home at Ebbetts field, Flatbush.

Even if she does not have her cowbell, and even if she has a cold and can't yell above a whisper, you do not overlook Hilda in a crowd. The pictures show she is a large and buxom old doll with a habit of standing up and making with the gestures at a ball game, and chances are if you are sitting behind her you do not see the game.

Hilda, believe it or not, is part of the Mansfield sport scene this season, although Hilda doesn't know it.

But the chances are that if there had never been such a person as Hilda the Bell Ringer, Mansfielder Mary (Bucky) Holda would be playing more or less regularly with the South Bend Blue Sox of the All American Girls softball league, instead of collecting splinters on the South Bend bench.

And truth to tell, Bucky has become the champion bench warmer of the All American Girls league.

The league closes its season this week. And in the second half of the league season, Bucky has been to bat just once, and that last week, and then she struck out. It had been so long since she had carted a chunk of kindling up to the platter.

No, Hilda hasn't beaten Bucky out of her job in the South Bend infield. But a gal named Bea Chester has. And Bea has taken over the third base bag where Bucky held forth in the first half of the season.

And Hilda is Bea Chester's mother. Small world, isn't it?

South Bend is tied for the league lead with Kenosha, and if the Blue Sox win the second half title, they'll meet the Racine Belles, first half winners, in a playoff. And Hilda is expected to be there with her cowbell. And Bucky will be there—on the bench.

Vaughan Gets Hit No. 2,000

Collects Three Bingles To Reach Select Circle.

By GLEN PERKINS

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — Infielder Arky Vaughan of the Brooklyn Dodgers was a member of baseball's select 2,000-hit circle today; and his recent activities indicate that he may have another 1,000 stored away in his brawny body.

Arky, of the open batting stance, garnered three safeties yesterday as the Dodgers scored a double victory over the Philadelphia Phillies, bringing his batting average to .317. His third hit was the 2,000th of his major league career, which started with the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1932 and has seen him lead the league at various times in hitting, runs scored and triples as well as being selected as the National league's most valuable player in 1935.

Whit Wyatt hurled the opening victory, allowing only six hits, as the Dodgers triumphed, 3-1. Hyatt retired the first 18 men to face him without a hit, keeping the initial sack empty until Ray Hamrick led off the seventh with a lone single to right.

Ed Head matched Wyatt's six hitter in the afterpiece which the Dodgers took, 8-0. Durocher's Dandies jumped on Schoolboy Rowe for five runs in the first frame to give Head a margin that was never threatened.

The Boston Braves came out of their six game losing streak with a double victory over the New York Giants, 4-1, in the first and 1-0 in the nightcap. Jim Tobin pitched the win the opener and Al Javery was credited with the second game as both notched their 12th triumphs of the season. Javery was pressed to win his game and drove in the winning run himself in the fifth inning.

The Cincinnati Reds and the St. Louis Cardinals split a pair, though the Cards were forced to 11 innings in the second to salvage one game of their four-game series with the Reds.

Elmer Riddle picked up his 17th victory of the season in the opener, 5-3, to make it three straight for the Cincinnati team. Max Lanier came in to pitch the 10th inning of the nightcap, fanned four of the six men he faced and started the rally that gave the champions a 3-2 victory by opening the 11th with a single. Walker Cooper singled him home.

The Chicago Cubs and the Pittsburgh Pirates split a doubleheader when the Bruins defeated Rip Sewell, 11-2, in the first and then bowed to Hank Gornicki, 3-1, in the nightcap. Hi Bithorn recorded his 16th victory in the opener when a ninth-inning uprising of seven runs clinched the game and kept Sewell from his 20th victory.

In the American league, the Cleveland Indians moved into undisputed possession of third place and dumped the Chicago White Sox into fifth with two wins.

Veteran Mel Harder hurled the opening victory and allowed the Sox to hit only four balls out of the infield as the Tribe scored a 2-1 decision. Orval Grove was the loser. Rookie Allied Reynolds won the nightcap, 6-1, assisted by Jeff Heath's 18th home run.

The Detroit Tigers took the St. Louis Browns to camp twice, 15-5 and 4-2. Rudy York hit two homers, one in each game, to raise his major league leading total to 30, but failed by one to tie his own record of 18 circuit clouts in a single month, set in August 1937. Virgil (Fire) Trucks was the winner of the opener and Tommy Bridges won the second.

The Philadelphia Athletics lost numbers 23 and 24 of their last 25 starts by bowing twice to the Washington Senators. Third Baseman Sherrard Robertson drove in the winning run in the 11th inning of the first to give Himmeritz credit for the 5-4 victory. Two tallies in the ninth inning of the second game provided Dutch Leonard with a 2-1 triumph.

The New York Yankees won two from the Boston Red Sox, although they needed 10 innings to take the first, 6-4. Roy Weatherly smashed his fourth homer of the season in the extra frame to give Johnny Murphy his 10th victory and end Tex Hughson's eighth-game mastery of the league leaders.

Charley Keller hit his 23rd and 24th homers in the opener and the Veteran Al Simmons of the Red Sox gained his first. Spud Chandler notched his 17th hurling victory in the afterpiece, 5-1, and again Weatherly drove one out of the park.

Westies Beat Park Team In 11 Innings

A combined team from the Maple Lake and Prospect clubs of the Parks Association softball league yesterday forced the Industrial league leading Westinghouse aggregation to go 11 innings before taking a 6-5 decision.

Westies tallied five runs in the first three innings, but the Parks team came back with five in one frame, the sixth, and it was a pitchers' battle between George Schaeffer and Kenny Windsor from there on.

GOLF PROS STAGE BENEFIT FOR CREAVY

ALBANY —(U.P.)— Tom Creavy, 1931 PGA champion, was approximately $2,000 richer today, thanks to a quartet of his golfing colleagues.

The four-Byron Nelson of Toledo, Gene Sarazen, Jimmy Hines and Jack Patroni—played an 18-hole match here yesterday for the benefit of Creavy, recovering from an attack of meningitis, before nearly 2,000 fans.

Managerial Rumors Fly

Terry at Brooklyn Is Latest Hot Tip.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

CHICAGO —(INS)— This being what you might call the mating season on managerial rumors, we're getting them in coveys and broods and shoals today, starting with the story about Leo Durocher going from Brooklyn (what again?) and Bill Terry, the man with the well-bred leer, coming back to take over.

* * *

As off-the-cuff rumors go, this sounds feasible enough. Durocher is certainly going . . . or a lot of reportorial necks will have a dull, terra cotta tinge.

As for Terry coming back, he has been trying to do that ever since he went away at the pressing invitation of Horece Stoneham, of the New York Giants. Willie, in fact, is even now trying to horn in on the war zone tour of all-star teams, sponsored by K. M. Landis.

He's a first rate man on the bench, at that, being able to run a ball game as well as the next, and better than most. Where he failed sensationally, as you might say, with the Giants was in player replacements, it having finally become clear to all that, be he ever so otherwise glib and smart, Willie couldn't develop a cold in the head.

However, that's Bro. Rickey's department, so the arrangement, if any, could turn out to be quite practical, all around. Both Terry and Stanley Harris, already being touted into the Brooklyn job, are said to be the Rickey type, whatever that is.

* * *

Harris also is getting a send-on from some quarters back to Tom Yawkey at Boston, where it's being claimed that Joe Cronin plans to resign in order to accept the general management of the Washington senators. There may be only one trouble with this story.

It may be one or two years ahead of it's time, since Cronin sooner or later is going back to Washington where his wife is the ward and heir-apparent of old Clark Griffith, who by this time must be beginning to dodder.

Meanwhile, all is grateful silence here, in re The strange case of James Wilson, of the Chicago Cubs. James and his ball nine are doing no better in a very marked manner, but don't give it a thought. He'll probably be rehired in recognition of his outstanding achievement in not finishing last.

Napoleon Wins Softball Title

Dayton Sucher Packers Take Ohio Girl Crown.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Extremely stingy pitching!

That's the story of Napoleon Rausch Roofers three victories to clinch their first state men's softball title.

Opponents of the new champions made only four hits in the 21 innings they played in the annual classic.

The best performance was Steve Kaifas' no-hitter in blanking Canton Mats, Inc., 2-0 in the semi-finals, but Elmer Rohrs, who allowed Lima Locomotive only three hits in winning the opener 3-2 Saturday, nearly duplicated the feat in permitting Lorain Sarek Beats only one blow in the championship contest last night.

Pacing his team to a 6-0 win in the finals, 17-year-old Rohrs struck out 15 and let only three Lorain players reach base safely. The lone hit was a double by Mike Zalesky, Lorain catcher, in the first inning.

Lorain reached the finals by upsetting the defending champion Ferguson State Auditors of Columbus, 3-2, in a 10-inning semi-final. The Auditors' downfall came when Catcher John Brown's throw struck a runner at first base while Joe Carek, the Lorain team's sponsor-outfielder scooted home from third with the winning run.

The women's division also crowned a new champion—the Dayton Sucher Packers.

The Packers trimmed the Columbus Kahn Jewelers, 7-4, in the championship game after edging out a 4-2 win over Columbus J. & K. Shoes in an eight-inning semi-final clash. Columbus Kahn beat Warren Leeds Jewelers 1-0 in the other semi-final contest.

Napoleon and Dayton will represent Ohio in their respective divisions in the regional tournament opening next week in Lakewood.

COP DOUBLES TITLE

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— Shirley Fry of Akron, O., and Doris Hart of Miami, Fla., won the National Girls' Lawn Tennis doubles championship at the Philadelphia Cricket club yesterday by beating Lillian Lopaus of New York and Betty Rosenquist of South Orange, N. J., 6-4, 10-8.

California girls again are expected to dominate the national women's tennis tournament at Forest Hills the first week in September with Defending Champion Pauline Betz, Rollins college student out of California, Margaret Osborne and Louise Brough the chief threats for the title. Among others expected to wage a stiff fight for the crown is Doris Hart of Miami, Fla.

THE CLUBHOUSE

By PAP'

(AP Features Sports Cartoonist)

Most golf clubs boast at least one strong backed young amateur who can knock a golf ball a country-mile. But the Seaview Golf Club at Absecon, N. J., site of the 1942 P.G.A. championship, tops them all with James E. (Sonny) Fraser. Fraser's supporters insist he is the longest-hitting golfer in the country—pro or amateur.

That's taking in a lot of territory, but the facts seem to indicate that their convictions are well founded. The veteran Leo Diegel, mindful of such long hitters in the pro ranks as Jimmy Thomson, Sammy Snead and Johnny Bulla, gives the nod to young Fraser without reservations. Craig Wood, Henry Picard, Gene Kures, Tony Penna and other leading pros loudly acclaim Fraser the top hitter among amateurs.

In a practice round with Snead shortly before the P.G.A. championship, the 27-year-old Fraser was from 20 to 30 yards longer off the tee than Slammin' Sammy.

The closest Sonny ever came to matching tee shots with Thomson was in the pro-amateur event which preceded the 1940 South Jersey open at the Country Club of Atlantic City. Fraser's foursome trailed Thomson's group so Whitey Gruhler, sports editor of the Atlantic City Press-Union, followed Thomson and remained at the point where Jimmy's drives landed until Fraser had hit. In this fashion, Gruhler was able to draw a sound comparison of their respective efforts.

Gruhler recorded that on 13 holes, omitting the par three holes, Fraser was longer off eight tees. On only two holes did Thomson top the amateur ace. The remaining three tee shots were about even.

Fraser is no Johnny-come-lately in golf. His father, the late "Jolly Jim" Fraser, was professional at the exclusive Seaview Country Club. Sonny's first and only toys were golf clubs. In 1919, at the age of three, he had a model golf swing. When he was five, Sonny shot a 120 at Seaview to defeat the late President Warren G. Harding before a gallery composed of ambassadors, senators and other dignitaries.

At 13, Sonny cracked Seaview's par 71 by two strokes. A year later his 67 equalled the course record held jointly by his father and Walter Hagen. That mark was his father's last golfing achievement and Sonny refused to break it. He often three or four putted the final green to avoid a new record.

After someone else lowered the mark, Sonny promptly regained the record for the Fraser family with a 65. Later he shaved it down to 64. He went on a record-breaking spree this summer and on two occasions toured the course in 60 strokes! All of which must be something of a world record for a course measuring well over 6,000 yards.

These prodigious scoring feats indicate that Sonny's game is not entirely wrapped up in his booming tee shots. As a matter of fact, there isn't a shot in the golf bag that he does not play with control and finesse. Sonny has the height and weight—he stands 6-foot-2 and weighs 195 pounds—to get distance, and just about the finest pair of hands an athlete could be blessed with for delicate control.

Added to his physical assets, Fraser has an insatiable appetite for practice. It is safe to hazard the guess that Sonny spends more time on the practice tee than he does playing the game. He is ever ready to lend a willing ear to tips proffered by the pros and constantly strives for improvement.

Right now, Sonny is playing with a set of clubs which Snead gave him in appreciation for his helpful suggestions when Sammy sought the P.G.A. title at Seaview. Sonny has no desire to turn professional; rather his golf dreams lie in the direction of the national amateur championship.

Do you still think you have an amateur ace who can top Sonny Fraser off the tee?

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK —(AP)— The football-hungry south may find a couple of its big games this fall between Sewanee and Howard, both of which dropped the game early in 1942 but have reinstated it. And Harvard, which also abandoned football, only had a turnout of 105 for informal practice . . . It's such things that lead Si (Dayton News) Burick to suggest that maybe Wellesley will come up with a grid team because 200 Navy V-12 boys were sent there from overcrowded Harvard. . . . Zach Wheat the old Dodger outfielder, is a safety engineer at the Sunflower ordnance works in Kansas. With a son in the army in Hawaii, Zach explains: "If I'm too old to play, I'd rather be a bat boy than sit in the stands."

When Alabama dropped football last week, it only proved the value of a college education . . . It took 'Bama only eight years to learn that there's no use searching for another Don Hutson.

The U. S. Golf association sent out 5,500 letters last week to golf courses and associations reminding them about holding tournaments for the national war fund on Labor Day week-end. The Red Cross got the genefit of two previous holiday week-ends this year. . . . The Big Ten and the National Football league are feuding over officials — both with their eyes on the post-war pickins.

Did anybody notice that the Athletics began their celebrated 20-game losing streak the day Jimmy Ripple joined the club and that it was Jimmy whose hit finally busted the string?

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

E. T. Bales, Chattanooga (Tenn) News-Free Press: "Bill Cox, president of the Phillies, complained that Bucky Harris was never available for comment except between the hours of 3 and 5 in the afternoon, but Cox has since learned differently. Harris is available at all hours now . . . if the subject is Bill Cox."

Capt. Ken Ormiston, who played guard under Jock Sutherland at Pitt and later coached lines at Miami and Western Reserve is athletic officer at Peterson field, Colo. . . . Lou Kolebuck, shortstop of the Fort Sheridan, Ill., Comets has been invited to work out with the Reds with a post-war contract in sight . . . and no wonder. Lou hit .571 in exhibitions against the Cubs and Reds.

Bitsy Swings, Doesn't Run

Pfc. Grant Says He's Too Old To Chase 'Em.

ST. LOUIS—(U.P.)—The little man from Peachtree street, a throwback to the Davis cup teams of 1935-36-37, returns to Forest Hills today to show top-flight tennis players his new game—"swing once if they're close but don't chase them."

After an absence of two years, Pfc. Bryan (Bitsy) Grant has decided to have one more fling before putting his rackets and cups on the mantel. When "Bitsy" takes the firing line Wednesday, however, it won't be the arch-retriever of tennis playing his famed "David and Goliath" role, but a 32-year-old army private—an almost forgotten star of another era—taking in a big New York show while on furlough.

Currently stationed at Jefferson barracks, Private Grant's furlough luckily coincided with the dates of the national championships, but he will go into the tournament "cold."

Bitsy hasn't performed in the big time since 1941, when he was beaten in the quarter-finals at Forest Hills as Bobby Riggs picked up the loving cup. The little man has seldom played since then, freely admits he is "in terrible tennis condition" and plans to take no more than one look and a swing at anything hit his way.

* * *

Grant, who for 11 years consistently knocked the big boys out of their rankings, will see few familiar faces in this year's tourney. It doesn't seem natural to associate Bitsy with such youngsters as Seymour Greenberg of Chicago, Joe Hunt of the navy and Francisco (Pancho) Seguar, the Ecuadorian who is currently the hottest racket-wielder in the business. When the little man was at his peak, Hunt was ranked No. 2 in the junior singles and Greenberg was the second best in boy's singles. The "mighty mite" belongs from seven to eight years back.

Private Grant admits he probably won't get by the first round, but Bitsy has a furlough and like any soldier he wants to go to New York and have a good time.

Lantz Paces Muzzle Loaders

George Lantz paced the Mansfield Muzzle Loader rifle club Saturday with a precentage of 55.1 in six matches in the 30-yard offhand matches. Cy Hassinger was second with 53.2 and T. Nelson and E. Smith tied for third at 37.

* * *

Nelson took the 30-yard string measure with a string of only 2.28 inches from center for three shots. Hassinger was second with 3.32 and third with 4.12.

* * *

In the 50-yard rest matches, Lantz took the honors with a 1.78 inch string. E. Adams was second with 2 inches, and E. Light third with 2.01.

Hassinger copped the 50-yard offhand match with a string of 6.60, J. Baldinger had 7.30 and S. Brown 10.8.

Reds with a post-war contract in sight . . . and no wonder. Lou hit .571 in exhibitions against the Cubs and Reds.

Tribe Pushes Sox Back Down Into Fifth Place

Harder and Reynolds Hurl Twin Over Dykesmen 2 to 1 and 6 to 1.

CHICAGO—(AP)—Chicago's White Sox are back in fifth place today, largely because of the pitching performances of a couple of Cleveland regulars who allowed only two runs in 18 innings of baseball yesterday.

The Indians won both ends of a double header, 2-1 and 6-1, their sixth twin killing in the last eight double headers. The triumphs gave the Indians a 14 to 5 edge over Chisox for the season.

The Indians move to Camp Grant, Ill., for an army camp exhibition today, and will resume hostilities with the White Sox in Cleveland's municipal stadium Thursday night. The three-game series before the Tribe followers will be the final 1943 meeting of the two teams.

Mel Harder and Allie Reynolds were pitching victors in the Sunday affray here. Harder twirled five-hit ball in the opener, and was so effective the three Redskin outfielders did not have a putout, while Lou Boudreau accepted 18 chances at shortstop and Ray Mack had eight at second base.

In the afterpiece, Allie Reynolds counteracted an attack of wildness by fanning five batters, raising his total to 105 for the season, and wielding only seven hits. He issued nine bases on balls, one of them forcing Chicago's only run over the plate in the first inning.

Tribal bats beat out a 14-hit tattoo in the nightcap, with Russ Peters battering out four successive singles, and Jeff Heath smashing his 18th home run off Johnny Humphries. Mickey Rocco banged out three singles in three official trips, after getting a pair in the opener.

SPLIT EVEN

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Billy Southworth and his St. Louis Cardinals certainly are thankful for that 10½ game lead in the National League race.

The Cards finished a four-game series here yesterday and when the shooting was over they managed to salvage one victory—and they had to go 11 innings to do that.

The Reds took the first game of Sunday's double bill, 5-3, but dropped the nightcap, 3-2, after tying the score at 2-all in the last half of the ninth.

The largest crowd in the history of Crosley Field saw the games. Total paid admissions of 35,475 were augmented by 2,542 servicemen and blood donors for a total of 38,017.

Pitching and sensational fielding featured both games. The Reds spotted Elmer Riddle a five-run lead in the opener but Riddle had to be rescued in the seventh when the Cards got to him for three runs. Clyde Shoun handcuffed the world champs for the rest of the distance.

In the nightcap, the Cardinals went into the last half of the ninth with a two-run lead. With one out, Eddie Miller doubled and scored on Ray Mueller's single. Gee Walker, running for Mueller, took second on an error and came racing home to tie the score when Max Marshall smashed a single through second base.

* * *

Max Lanier, who relieved Murray Dickson in the 10th, pitched and batted the Cards to Victory. Lanier fanned four of the six Cincinnati batsmen who faced him and in the 11th he singled was sacrificed to second and scored the winning run on Walker Cooperr's single.

The Reds are idle today awaiting Tuesday's opening of a three-game series with the Chicago Cubs.

Expect Crowd At Net Joust

Forest Hills Tourney Limits Contestants.

By JACK CUDDY

* * *

(1) It will be the most compact tourney in the nationals' history, with all competition—men's, women's and doubles—compressed into six days and limited to 32 contestants in each division.

* * *

(2) Though Francisco Segura of Ecuador is favored to take the men's title, double-grip "Pancho" will be confronted with the finest force of U. S. players assembled for any tournament since Pearl Harbor. They'll include at least six service men.

(3) A wide-open, five-way fight seems assured for the women's crown among Pauline Betz, defending champion; Louise Brough, Margaret Osborne, Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Cooke and Doris Hart.

(4) Metropolitan fans are "hungry" for big-time play, after a year in which the tennis association concentrated on staging local Red Cross tourneys in various sections (nearly 300 of them) and in developing young players. Moreover, the West Side club is reached easily by subway.

President Ward explained today, "the association has raised approximately $25,000 for the Red Cross this year; and a share of the proceeds of the championships will be used for purchasing player equipment for members of the armed forces. Meanwhile, the services have co-operated with us in arranging for the championships."

Segura, the diminutive, dark-haired but explosive Ecuadorian, heads the civilian contingent that will try to lift Ensign Schroeder's championship. He is favored because he swept everything in sight this year, starting with the Sugar Bowl invitation meet and continuing through the National Intercollegiate, Eastern Grass, Eastern Intercollegiate, New Jersey State and Southampton tourneys.

Meanwhile Pauline Betz faces a difficult assignment in retaining her singles diadem. Her opponents include Margaret Osborne, who defeated Pauline at Rye this year; Louise Brough, last year's runner-up; Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Cooke, the '41 titleholder who retired last year but who returned to competition recently in excellent form; and Doris Hart, the Florida lass who yesterday retained her national girls' title at Philadelphia.

Birds Win Two, Drop To Third

(By Associated Press)

The American Association pennant race took on its usual tight proportions today with only 1½ games separating the three leaders.

Indianapolis climbed into second place, a game shy of catching Milwaukee and Columbus relinquished its hold on the runner-up spot by sliding into third place despite a double win yesterday.

Carl Fairly's single in Sunday's seventh inning of the opener to drive home a brace of runs which pushed the Tribe to a 6-4 decision. Woodie Rich blanked Milwaukee 1-0 in the nightcap.

John Antonelli banged in six runs with two homers and a single to help Columbus to a 11-1 victory over the Saints, and the Flock took the afterpiece 2-1.

Fourth-place Toledo blasted Minneapolis 8-0 and 5-2.

At Kansas City, the Blues captured a 4-3 win from Louisville in the opener, but the Colonels took the second 4-1.

Three Teams Still In Legion Tourney

MILES CITY, Mont — (AP) — Three teams remained in the running today for the American Legion junior world series championship.

Springfield, O., will play Minneapolis at 2 p. m. (MWT) in the seventh game of the series, and the winner will clash at 8 p. m. with New Orleans.

The tourney could be concluded tonight if Springfield should win both games. Otherwise it will go to the ninth game tomorrow.

The underdog Springfield club downed New Orleans 4-3 last night. Earlier New Orleans had scored a 7-4 win over Minneapolis.

FDR RETURNS TO DESK, RESUMES MILITARY TALKS

Chinese Foreign Minister One of First To See Roosevelt, Back From Quebec.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt, tanned and refreshed after a week-end rest en route from the Quebec war-strategy conference, returned to the White House today and immediately plunged into further talks with his top military and political advisors.

The president summoned Secretary of State Cordell Hull, chief of Staff Gen. George C. Marshall and chief of the air force Gen. Henry H. Arnold to the White House.

At the same time, he switched the spotlight toward the Pacific areas and scheduled a conference with China's special representative and foreign minister, Dr. T. V. Soong.

The conversations with the nation's foremost military and political chieftains were preliminary to a resumption of conferences with Prime Minister Churchill, who is expected to join the chief executive here later in the week.

Dr. Soong, who represents the government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek at the Quebec conference where considerable emphasis was laid in long-range Allied planning on continuing major offensives against the Japanese in the far Pacific, was to see the president before the American officials went to the White House.

The president also had on his schedule brief conferences with Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes, and OWI Director Elmer Davis.

The Churchill-Roosevelt conferences were to be resumed in the wake of a new warning to Germany that Nazi murderers of Polish civilians will pay for their crimes.

The two Democratic leaders will continue their Quebec war strategy talks here against the backdrop of sensational new outbreaks of unrest in Nazi-occupied and dominated Europe.

Number one of their schedule, however, is expected to be consideration of the possibility of a tripartite conference with Soviet Russia for agreements on the conduct of the war by all three nations, and the peace settlements that must be made later

Such a conference was suggested by the government-controlled Russian press during the Quebec conference.

YOUTH CENTER TO BE KNOWN AS 'PLAYTEEN'

J. A. C. Incorporates, Sends More Requests For Funds To Operate 'Night Club.'

Speeding its program to establish a "dry night club" for Mansfield's teen-age youngsters, the Junior Association of Commerce today had incorporated its project as Playteen Inc.

Plans for putting the Playteen into operation early in September were moving ahead today on all lines with the exception of the drive for funds. Robert LeFevre, head of the drive, said today less than $200 had been donated toward the $1,000 needed.

LeFevre said more letters would go out soon to prospective donors asking them to have a part in financing the recreation center.

Student representatives to serve on the ruling council of Playteen have been partially selected, Edwin Balyeat, J. A. C. president, said today.

Representing Senior high are Robert Miller, Virginia Marion, and four others not yet selected. Senior high has been given the largest representation because of its school population, Balyeat said.

Other representatives are Catherine Letizia and one other from John Simpson Junior high; Barbara Bailey and Cory Fay from Johnny Appleseed Junior high; Donald Eggerton and one other from Madison high.

Representatives from some of the nearby rural schools will be chosen later, Balyeat said.

EDICT LIFTED

Pleasure Driving In East To Be Allowed Wednesday.

NEW YORK—(INS)—The ban on pleasure driving, which has kept eastern motorists off highways except for essential purposes since May 15, will end on Wednesday, an OPA official announced here today.

Adolph J. Chesley, Bronx rationing administrator, said he had received the following departmental communication from Washington OPA headquarters:

"Effective Sept. 1, the non-essential driving and boating ban in restricted areas is lifted."

Despite the scheduled lifting of the ban, another high OPA official made it clear that eastern motorists could expect no increase in gasoline ration allotments.

THREE INJURED IN CAR MISHAPS

Three persons were injured in traffic accidents at Crestline and Lucas over the week-end, state highway patrolmen reported today.

Miss Christine Verdi, 50, of Crestline R. D. 2, suffered a back sprain and Orville Rebman, 3, suffered head lacerations when cars driven by Ralph E. Rebman, Crestline, and Samuel E. Freese, Crestline, collided at the entrance to the driveway of the Verdi residence.

At Lucas, six-year-old Richard Green suffered bruises and lacerations when he ran in front of a car drived by Russell J. Weber, Lucas R. D. 1, on a Lucas street.

LEGAL NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that on the 24th day of August 1943 the undersigned Mt. Calvary Baptist Church filed its petition in the Court of Common Pleas of Richland County, Ohio, Case No 27050 alleging that it is the owner of the following described real estate to-wit:

Lot number 8501 of the consecutive numbers of lots in the City of Mansfield, Richland County, Ohio.

The petitioner desires to encumber said premises in the sum of $3500.00 and use the funds to pay off the balance due on said premises.

The prayer of the petition is for authority to encumber said premises in according with the statute in such cases made and provided.

Said petition will be for hearing on the 28th day of September, 1943 or as soon thereafter as the Court may designate.

MT. CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH
By JOS. A. BAYER,
Its Attorney.

Nurse's Aides To Be Rewarded With Service Ribbons

Red Cross Nurse's Aides will receive a special service ribbon for each 100 hours of duty over the required 150 hours a year, it was announced today in a letter sent nurse's aides by Mrs. George L. Draffan, chairman of the Nurse's Aide committee.

In the letter, Mrs. Draffan reminded the aides they must mark up their hours of duty before signing out at the hospital to receive credit for their work. It was also announced that beginning in September, only Nurse's Aides who have completed 100 hours in the hospital will be permitted to work at the Blood Donor Service.

It is now possible for Aides to work at the hospital until 10 p. m. Those hours are available first to the girls who are employed during the day. The Aides were also reminded that they must sign in and out of the hospital on their hours of duty.

COSGROVE HEADS NEW COMMITTEE

R. C. Cosgrove, former Mansfielder, now vice president and general manager of the manufacturing division of the Crosley Corporation, has been named chairman of a new committee on post-war planning of the Radio Manufacturers' association.

The committee will have wide jurisdiction in the field of post-war planning, including reconversion of the industry to civilian manufacturing and also immediate problems relating to war contracts and their termination.

When in Mansfield, Cosgrove was associated with the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

ENTERS HOSPITAL

CRESTLINE — Blais Hauzk of the Emerson hotel was admitted to Emergency hospital Sunday and dismissed the same day. Included were Joe Malotto of 116 Lincoln avenue and Mrs. Margaret Holtzapfel of 428 North Pearl street.

If you ever need $25, $50, $100 or more quickly and simply, come to Household Finance. If you have a job so that you can repay in small monthly payments, you are welcome to apply for any amount up to $1000. The sooner you repay the less your loan costs. Example. A $50 loan repaid in 6 monthly installments of $9.24 each costs $5.44—if repaid in one month the cost is only $1.50. No endorsers or guarantors are ever needed. We never make inquiries of friends or relatives.

MIXED PRICES RULE IN EARLY MARKET TRADES

Manpower Problem In Steel Industry Becomes Serious In Expanded Program.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Moderately mixed price tendencies persisted in today's early stock market transactions.

Fractional gainers at a slow opening included Bethlehem Steel, Homestake Mining, Southern Railway, Public Service of N. J., Loew's and Dome Mines. Among small losers were general Electric, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, N. Y. Central, Sears Roebuck and Radio Corp.

Followers of the steels noted warnings of observers in this industry that the manpower problem was likely to assume greater importance in mines and mills as production calls expand in virtually all armament fields.

CHICAGO —(AP)— Prices in grain pits were steady at the opening today. Cash interests were on the buying side of wheat while most of the selling came through commission houses.

Wheat started unchanged to ⅝ higher, September $1.45⅞-1.47¼, December $1.48⅛, and rye was unchanged to ⅜ higher, September $1.03⅝.

THEATERS

Music, Comedy and Scenery.

"Du Barry Was a Lady," current at the Ohio theater and running for a week, is a fast-paced technicolor musical comedy, starring Lucille Ball, Red Skelton, Virginia O'Brien and Gene Kelly. Others in the cast include Tommy Dorsey, "Rags" Rayland and many "Esquire girls." Skelton takes a hilarious leap into the distant past as the story revolves about the dream of the comedian, who plays a checkroom attendant in a night club. The comedy is embellished with Cole Porter music. Beautiful girls in elaborate Irene costumes add glamour to the laughs of the story.

Battle of Elements.

Rosalind Russell and Fred MacMurray share stellar honors in "Flight for Freedom" showing at the Madison with the co-feature, "Alaska Highway." The former is a romance of a brave woman who was a foremost flier of her day. The picture suggests an "inside story" behind the navy's attacks on the fortified areas in the mandated islands of the South Pacific, closely following the outbreak of our war with Japan. Richard Arlen and Jean Parker have the leads in "Alaska Highway," the story of two brothers in love with the same girl. They fight each other as desperately as they fight the Alaskan elements.

Family Life.

Continuing at the Ritz theater today is "The Human Comedy," starring Mickey Rooney and Frank Morgan. It is the story of a typical American family, the Macauleys of Ithaca, Calif. The family is poor in worldly wealth, but rich in human values. The oldest son, played by Van Johnson, has gone to war, the second son, (Mickey Rooney) gets a job as messenger boy to help out his mother, a widow, played by Fay Bainter. The daughter attends college and does war work with her brother's fiancee, the girl next door. Frank Morgan plays the part of an old-time telegraph operator. Gene Autry in "Ride, Tenderfoot, Ride" is the co-feature.

Allies Repulsed On New Guinea By Sharp Jap Attack

Salamaua, with their backs to the strategic airdrome there, thrusting out frequent counter-attacks and "our troops have been forced to give ground slightly in some points," it was announced.

Heavy Allied air attacks lashed out again at the enemy, with Flying Fortresses destroying three jetties and 20 barges at Voco point near Lae, 100 miles east of Salamaua. Medium Mitchells on Saturday wrecked a 2,000-ton ship, a patrol boat and 31 barges and luggers in a raid on Hansa Bay, halfway between Wewak and Madang on New Guinea's northeast coast.

In Burma, RAF planes sank upwards of 60 loaded sampans in the Irrawaddy and Hunters Bay areas, returning without loss. B-24 bombers dropped 19 tons of bombs on Jap-occupied Myitkyina.

A warning of great new aerial attacks was given the Japanese by Vice Admiral John S. McCain, deputy chief of air operations, in Washington, who declared that "naval aviation has become an extremely powerful weapon, possibly the most powerful. Huge task forces, spearheaded by carrier-based aircraft, are poising for new pile-driver blows against the enemy."

U. S. airmen and ground defenses knocked down 191 Japanese planes in the Solomons area between July 25 and Aug. 26, against loss of 14 American planes, Maj Gen. Nathan F. Twining, Solomons air commander, disclosed. Six U. S. pilots were saved.

this morning in the southern part of Ross county.

Allen, police said, told them they had burglarized a store at Utica for clothing, later separating and then meeting periodically at a pre-arranged rendezvous.

Allen told police they had stolen the car they were driving in Portsmouth Saturday night and had attached plates stolen from another car.

He said the fugitives had planned to drive to the west coast after they had burglarized several places to obtain funds.

When apprehended police said, each had a screw driver and a pair of wire snippers. Together they had less than $3 in cash.

The inmates were believed to have stolen a funeral car from the Finefrock funeral home following their escape from the reformatory Tuesday night. The car has not yet been recovered. Chillicothe police were expected to question Allen and Shrider today about its disposal.

Meanwhile Superintendent Arthur L. Glattke reported today that two other trusties George Harrington, 24, of Clark county, and Ross Sweeney, 17, Jackson county, walked away from the reformatory Sunday.

Harrington was serving a one to 20-year term for auto theft and Sweeney was serving a term for breaking and entering.

IN THE CAPITAL-- By Raymond Clapper

WASHINGTON—The administration is trying to establish a new way of thinking about lend-lease. Instead of repayment in money or goods, the president says in his latest lend-lease report to congress that "victory and a secure peace are the only coin in which we can be repaid."

Lend-lease is part of a general Allied war pool. Each nation contributes everything it has to the pool—because the sooner we win the war the more lives and treasure we all save. So America contributes food and tanks to Russia, bombers to Britain, and the lives of American soldiers in the campaigns in Tunisia, Sicily and the Pacific. Britain contributes Spitfires, battleships and Montgomery's Eighth army. Russia contributes thousands of lives to make the gouging wounds in the German army.

Clapper

How can you sort all that out? How can you fix any dollar values and figure out who owes how much? You can't.

We send many bombers to England. If they go on bombing missions with American crews some of whom are lost, that isn't lend-lease and the British owe us nothing. If we allow the British to fly the bombers with their own crews, some of whom are lost, then it is lend-lease and they owe us for the planes. You can't unscramble equities out of that, beyond saying we are all pitching in to win the war.

Lend-lease aid now amounts to nearly 14 billion dollars. We loaned the Allies about 10 billions in the last war. Lend-lease now is running at the rate of about one billion dollars a month. Yet it is only 12 per cent of our war cost, so that relatively it is a minor item for us.

We may expect considerable increase in reciprocal lend-lease, from other United Nations before long. For some time we have been receiving benefits from them. Reciprocal aid at times has run as high as 30 per cent of what we were laying out.

When the East Indies are recovered we may expect that we shall get large quantities of natural rubber on reciprocal lend-lease. If we furnish high-octane gasoline to Great Britain on lend-lease why should we not receive in exchange natural rubber? Pooling works both ways.

When President Roosevelt first explained the lend-lease idea at a press conference back in 1940, he used the illustration of a garden hose. If your neighbor's house was on fire and he wanted to borrow your garden hose to fight it, you would of course lend it to him. After the fire was put out your neighbor would return the hose. Or if it was damaged he would replace it with a new one.

The inference from that illustration was that after the war, after the fire was out, we would expect the British, the Russians, the Chinese and others to furnish us with replacement goods until all lend-lease aid was repaid.

The first lend-lease act says that the president may extend aid on any terms he deems satisfactory, and that the benefit to the United States may be payment or repayment in kind or property, or any other direct or indirect benefit which the president deems satisfactory.

Under that authority, the president states in a message to congress, that congress made it plain it wants no new war debts to jeopardize the coming peace. He says victory and a secure peace are the only coin in which we can be repaid.

For those who have lost sons in this war, surely no other coin would be acceptable.

FAIR ENOUGH-- By Westbrook Pegler

NEW YORK—The international situation seems fairly well in hand so I guess I can take my eyes off it long enough to tell you about the conviction of another of those personalities of the union shakedown up at Newburgh, N. Y., and what it means to posterity.

This guy is known as Jack Wallace, the name he used in the ring some years ago and he is a member of the Hague political mob in Jersey and of the Joe Fay mob in the union racket. He had another name but let's not bother about that. He has a long police record and is just a gorilla who never did a lick of work in any of his numerous vacations from prisons and jails. Edward G. O'Neill, an assistant attorney general of the state of New York held over from the Lehman administration to finish up the investigations and prosecutions which he started about 18 months ago, finally got Wallace on two felony charges after a jury trial, and, considering his past performances, he may be sent away for as long as 15 years.

Pegler

Up to now Wallace has been a very steady fellow but 15 years or even 10 is a lot of time out of a life and he may decide to look for a bargain and try to cut down his sentence by squealing on Fay, who is the boss racketeer of the mob and under indictment in Manhattan and the one they are really trying to get. Wallace is O'Neill's second score in the Newburgh investigations, the first one being a local bootlegger and Saturday-night sport around town named Sam Nuzzo who was convicted a few months ago and given 10 years. In the course of the job, O'Neill went deep into the books and other records of the union, which is a local of the hod carriers and common laborers, and got information which makes brother Fay's future look depressing.

Here is the way it was:

They were building a great tunnel to bring water down from the mountains to New York and were spending about 300 millions, so when it developed that the job was going through the jurisdiction of the Newburgh local of the hodcarriers, the gorillas rallied around in force. James Bove of Yonkers, who owns a local of his own which normally brings him a very handsome income, is also an international vice president of the union which has headquarters in Washington. So Bove cut himself in and, for purposes of supervision, sent Wallace over to Newburgh as Nuzzo's assistant. Bove also is under indictment for extortion along with Fay in Manhattan and some of the evidence turned up around Newburgh probably will be used in their trials. Wallace doesn't even look the part of a unioneer and about all he did was tear up the sucker's money on vacation trips to Florida and other haunts of the criminal scum whenever the selfless defenders of labor's gains would decide to get away from it all and catch up on their drinking, gambling and love life and therefore would call a convention or jurisdictional conference.

Bove isn't a Jerseyman but Wallace and Fay are and Fay is a very heavy Hague man. And, in view of Hague's strength in Washington the boys undoubtedly will turn to and try to save Fay when he goes to trial in New York. The fact that Bove sent Fay's gorilla over to supervise the graft on the Newburgh section of the tunnel gives you an idea of the association between Fay and Bove, even though they operate through seperate international unions of the AFL. Fay's is the operating engineers, a smelly racket but no more rank than the hod carriers, and because the poor fellows in the two trades operate side-by-side in tunnel and excavation work, their affairs often interlace.

That makes two down and the next trial will be the main event but do you want to know something peculiar? Well, although millions of federal money went down the hole on this enormous project, the federal department of justice hasn't made a move. The federal D. of J. hasn't made a move even though the mob moved in on several colossal military construction jobs under army supervision, in the same neighborhood and ran the taxpayers' bill 'way up, during the very time that the Newburgh investigation and trial were proceeding.

Why not?

Well, you know, labor's gains and all that.

ON BROADWAY-- By Dorothy Kilgallen

The Legends of Broadway.

(Number 26—"Give the Bum a Table!")

TEXAS GUINAN'S immortal edict, "Give the little gal a great big hand!" has been outdistanced and out-legended by Toots Shor's trademark, "Give the bum a table." Cabinet members, world champions, motion picture stars, social registerites, gangsters and plain solid citizens have been relegated to seats in his unique restaurant in that fashion—and each has loved it; for if the gargantuan Toots has never called you BUM with his particular inflection of affection and derision, you haven't arrived.

Kilgallen

It is only part of his legend that he arrived here from Philadelphia in 1930 with ten dollars in his pocket. Jack Lynch, one of the bright lights of Philly, advised him to go to New York where there was so much money waiting for anyone with fight enough to grab it. "Stay here, Toots," he warned, "and you'll wind up peddling shirts."

He arrived in this town in the era of champagne at $25 a bottle, dollar charge for bread and butter in swank speakeasies. Ziegfeld girls, mobsters in 16-cylinder cars, a murder a day and thousand dollar bills in Broadway pockets. Toots looked at it all his first night at a table in Reuben's stared at the ermine and jewels nearby, sniffed the expensive perfume at neighboring tables, and called for his check. He went over to the Napoleon, smartest of the expensive speakeasies, shoved his way in and told the husky at the door, "I'm Shor from Philadelphia—Frenchy sent for me."

He was taken to an upstairs room where sat a half-dozen men who didn't smile. The huge fellow at the head of the table growled, "I don't know you. What do you want?" Toots smiled. He has a big kid's smile with no larceny in it. "I want to talk to you. I want to make a lotta money."

The huge fellow smiled, then laughed, then roared, "Sit down—you look okay." Toots took a chair just as a burly individual walked over and snarled: "Take a walk, you creeps—I want to talk to the boss!" All left the table immediately, except Toots. He looked at the stranger and said coldly: "Don't call me a creep, you creep." The stranger advanced menacingly and Toots stood up and hit him one. He says, "It was the luckiest punch of my life—I knocked the bum cold."

The bum was the toughest prohibition agent of the era.

The boys were now sold on Toots. He was given the job of inside doorman at the Napoleon and then switched to other smart spots the lads operated. It was in these places that he met the columnists and celebrities who became so close to him in later years.

Toots was making about $200 a week at the time and spending double. It was at this period that it happened—the thing that changed his career. He went to a Follies show and during one of those Ziegfeld soft shoe numbers saw the most beautiful little double. He rode around and sang loudly: "Ev-ry Boddy Lo--ooves A Ba-a-a-a-aby, Pru-u-u-ty Ba-a-aby."

The pretty little baby was Marion Volk and a few months later Toots married her, and she has been "Baby" to him ever since.

He settled down at this point—that is, he spent only ALL the money he made. He became manager of Leon & Eddie's and then got the job of running the Tavern on West 48th street. Several months later he bought the place.

Money rolled in and Toots started a new phase in his career—that of Big Gambler. Five thousand on a ball game, two hundred on a race, two thousand on a fight. Things went bad, of course. Before very long, the Tavern closed.

Toots was offered other jobs but he liked that marvelous OWN BOSS feeling, so he held out until Leo Justin, the Boston motion picture executive, offered to back him in a restaurant. On opening night, Toots stopped before he turned the key and threw away his entire capital—85 cents. "I wanted to start clean," he explained.

It clicked from the starting bell. Toots worked hard—and hasn't stopped. His massive frame shadows the entrance to the dining room at all hours and he tosses BUM happily from noon to midnight.

A little fellow came in and Toots boomed at him: "Have a table for you in about 20 minutes, Charlie. Be funny for the people!" It was Charles Chaplin. . . . "Your clam chowder is the last word," said a distinguished looking man as he left. "Tell that to the bums when you make your next broadcast," shouted Toots. It was Wendell Willkie. . . . "You're a terrific guy, Toots," said a naval officer. "Tell it to your old man!" answered Toots. It was Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr.

DEWEY LEADS IN 45-STATE POLL FOR PRESIDENT

Willkie Drops Back To Third, Says Conductor of Survey Who Backed Him In '40.

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO — Delegates to the 1940 Republican national convention which nominated Wendell Willkie, now pick Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York as their first choice for the presidential nomination, with Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio second and Willkie third.

This was disclosed today in a poll taken by James S. Kemper, former president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, in 45 out of the 48 states. Kemper was himself a delegate to the 1940 convention and voted for Willkie. He is an insurance company executive.

Kemper's poll showed that 36.04 per cent of the 1940 delegates favor Dewey, with 21.32 per cent for Bricker, 16.75 per cent for Willkie, 8.12 per cent for Gen. Douglas MacArthur, 6.09 per cent for former President Herbert Hoover, and 5.58 per cent for Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

Taft practically has eliminated himself as a possibility, saying he intended to support Gov. Bricker for the nomination and run again for the senate himself.

While Willkie ran third among the first choices, he was right at the top of the list of those whom the 1940 delegates regarded as the poorest candidate for 1944. He got 63.36 per cent of these votes, Hoover running second with 12.22 per cent, Bricker third with 7.63 per cent, Alf M. Landon, the 1936 candidate, fourth with 6.11 per cent, Taft fifth with 3.82 per cent and Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan sixth with 2.29 per cent.

Gov. Dewey came through that test without a single delegate placing him in the weakest candidate category.

Gov. Bricker showed a marked gain over the poll announced Aug. 14, when the delegates in only 37 states had been tabulated as to their preference. Then he was in third place with 15.8 per cent. His jump to 21.32 per cent shoved Willkie out of second place and reduced the 1940 candidate's percentage from 18.72 to 16.75.

Dewey's percentage also was lowered from 39.19 to the current 36.04.

DEATH TOLL 21 IN MINE BLAST

Two Explosions Rip Southern Pit; 23 Others Burned; Cause a Mystery.

(By Associated Press)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—Twenty-one dead were counted today from the two gas explosions which late Saturday and early yesterday tore through the Republic Steel corporation's No. 2 Sayreton coal mine here.

Twenty-three others were burned, several of them critically.

Among the dead were E. J. McCrossin, chief state mine inspector; George Ferguson, Sayreton night superintendent; and William Goodwin, chief mine inspector here for Republic. They headed rescue parties which entered the mine after their first blast.

E. I. Evans, southern district manager for Republic, said in a statement:

"The first explosion (at 10:20 p. m. Saturday) seriously interrupted the ventilating system and damaged the stoppings, doors and regulators in the ninth left section area. The second explosion at 12:40 a. m. yesterday was more violent and extended the damage which already existed and started eight small fires."

Evans said the origin of the explosions was unknown.

A company spokesman estimated that 100 of the regular night crew of 135 men made their way to safety unhurt between the explosions. The death toll stood at 19 last night, but was raised to 21 today with the death of C. E. Saxon, inspector for the U. S. bureau of mines; and Will Neal, a miner.

DEATH FOLLOWS LONG ILLNESS

Mrs. Pauline Bowers, 82, Was Native Of Mansfield.

Mrs. Pauline Bowers, 82, widow of the late W. H. Bowers, died Sunday at the Mansfield Sanitarium hospital after a lingering illness. She was born in Mansfield April 3, 1861 and spent her entire life in this community.

She is survived only by nephews and nieces.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services will be conducted Wednesday at 10 a. m. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

Carolyn McGinty, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe McGinty, Linden road, won first prize yesterday in a class for equitation at the Marion Horse show. The class was for children under 12, and Carolyn was the youngest of the group. She rode a pony "Champ" which is owned by Paula Weir. Carolyn received a blue ribbon and a trophy.

Workers were busy today making the old barn behind the county jail look less like a barn and more like the garage it now is. This morning the old cupola came down from its perch on the roof. In the days when the county sheriff used a horse to keep law and order in the county the cupola topped the hay mow and aired out the hay. Now that the horseless carriage has replaced old Dobbin the cupola is of no use. For 63 years, since the construction of the barn and jail in 1880, the cupola has stood atop the old barn.

PERFORMER'S AIM GOES AWRY

After 41 Years Without Miss, Sharpshooter Kills Wife as Trick Shot Hits Her.

(By International News Service)

MARIETTA, Ill.—The William Tell act of "Bill Cody and Buckskin Ethel" was ended for good today with the latter dead, fatally shot by her sharpshooting husband before 3,000 merrymakers at Marietta's annual harvest festival and homecoming.

In private life the professional shooting and knife throwing entertainers were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Poole of Henry, Ill.

They had reached the tense moment of their act when Poole as "Bill Cody" shoots off pieces of chalk that his wife, Ethel, had placed in her ears. Poole raised his .22 caliber rifle, aimed carefully and fired.

The stunned crowd saw the 56-year-old Mrs. Poole sink to the floor, mortally wounded with a bullet over her right eye. She died en route to St. Francis hospital.

Poole, who is 63, was questioned by state police, but no charges were placed against him. He said they performed the same act for 41 years without a mishap. A coroner's jury held the shooting accidental.

ARMY TAKES ON PROBE OF WAC MEMBER'S DEATH

Reported To Be Searching For Woman In Black After Indiana Murder.

(By United Press)

INDIANAPOLIS — Army authorities shrouded with military secrecy today their investigation into the mysterious death of WAC Corporal Naoma L. Ridings, 32, Warm Springs, Ga., whose half-nude body was found in a hotel room Saturday night, apparently slashed with a broken whisky bottle.

Mrs. Lillian McNamara, a maid, discovered Corp. Ridings' body five hours after she checked in to spend a week-end leave at one of Indianapolis' largest downtown hotels. Her body was found lying, nude from the waist down, in a pool of blood near the door. Deep cut wounds gashed the head, throat and wrists.

Police Sgt. Fae Davis said a broken whisky bottle was the only weapon found in the room which could have inflicted the gashes. Six full Coca Cola bottles also were found in the room.

Authorities were believed searching for an unidentified "dark-haired woman dressed in black" in connection with the slaying. Two bellhops, Alfred Bayne, jr., and Robert Wolfington, told officers they saw such a woman in the room during one of several trips to the room to bring refreshments.

Officers apparently placed less faith in a clue furnished by a man who identified himself as a Corp. Kaplan. While Mrs. McNamara was on her way to Corp. Ridings' seventh floor room in the erroneous belief she had checked out, Kaplan telephoned the desk and reported that a woman was screaming in that room.

After the body was discovered, detectives seized and questioned Kaplan but dismissed him, deciing he had no connection with the case. Later his report to the desk was contradicted by the occupant of a room adjacent to that of the victim. The occupant, a Jack Manaheim, said he was in his room all evening and heard no disturbance.

WIDOW DIES

Mrs. Mary Rinehart Butler Was Ill Several Months.

Mrs. Mary Rinehart Butler, 81, widow of the late John F. Butler, 560 West Fourth street, died Sunday at Mansfield Sanatorium-hospital, after an illness of several months. Previously she had made her home with her niece, Mrs. R. W. James, 560 West Fourth street.

She was born near Newville, April 19, 1862, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Rinehart. She was married in 1912 to John F. Butler, who preceded her in death seven years.

Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Celestia E. Fildes of Mansfield, a niece, Mrs. James, and a nephew, Karl V. Wheeler of Newark, N. J., also grandnieces and grandnephews.

She was a member of St. Mathew's Lutheran church. Rev. Charles Sheriff will conduct funeral service at the Wappner funeral home Tuesday at 4 p. m. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

NAZIS FIRE ON DANES FLEEING MILITARY RULE

Saturday. The cabinet's flat rejection of the demands signalled the end of Danish collaboration and the smashing of the German effort to establish Denmark as a showcase model for other occupied countries.

Marine and Royal Guard forces fought a spirited battle with German troops who tried to invade the royal barracks and naval yard in Copenhagen as the scuttling was in progress.

Forty-five vessels of various types, including two new destroyers and nine submarines, were sunk, ammunition dumps blown up, and harbor fortifications wrecked.

Nazi troops surrounded the royal palace at Amalienborg, but the Royal Guard blocked all entrances and exchanged gunfire with the Germans Resistance ceased only when King Christian gave the order.

The military dictatorship was imposed as the climax of a rapid series of sabotage acts in the past two weeks throughout the German vassal state, overrun by Hitler's forces in 1940.

"Recent disturbances have shown that Danish authorities are no longer in position to maintain law and order," said the martial law decree.

Gen Hermann Von Hannecken, the German commander in Denmark, issued the decree, threatening "ruthless use of arms" to enforce it.

It banned all strikes, civil communications street traffic after dark and assemblies of more than five persons except for church services The death penalty was provided for those who incite workers to strike

Bulgarian Premier Facing Tough Task.

ISTANBUL — (AP) — Bulgaria unsettled by the death of King Boris, presented a potential problem to Adolf Hitler today as Premier Bogdan Philov strove to reconcile conflicting elements in the nation which made his position none too secure

The five-member regency which according to German broadcasts, will rule in behalf of the boy King Simeon II, apparently is dominated by an anti-German, pro-British church leader — the metropolitan of Sofia, Stefan, who has protested against Gestapo activity in Bulgaria and against recent anti-Semitic laws

The queen mother Ionna, second member of the regency, also is regarded as anti-German Prince Kyril, brother of the late king, and Philov are both pro-German while the fifth regent is a politically unknown supreme court justice

Composed of such diverse elements, it seems highly unlikely that this regency will be able to prevent the orphaned Philov government from collapsing and being replaced with a military cabinet.

In that event the leader of the government probably would be selected from the military hierarchy which is pro-German.

Sweden Rejects Germany's Reply.

STOCKHOLM —(INS)— Sweden today brusquely rejected Germany's negative answer to her sharp protest over the sinking of two Swedish fishing boats by German warships in the Skaggerak.

The Swedish government refused to accept as "completely absurd" Nazi claims that the sunken vessels had forfeited their own neutrality by entering "international waters."

(Editor's Note: A British broadcast heard by CBS reported that Sweden may retaliate to the sinkings and the German accusations by banning Swedish territorial waters to the Germans.)

The widow of Charles W. Keister, she left Mansfield 20 years ago. A brother, Charles S. Mosey, 590 Park avenue west, is her only immediate survivor.

Funeral services are to be conducted in Toledo tomorrow morning and burial will follow in Mansfield cemetery. Mr. and Mrs. Mosey are leaving Mansfield for Toledo this afternoon to attend the services.

WRECK ITALIAN RAIL JUNCTION

Fortresses Batter Orte as Air Assault Goes Into Third Straight Day.

Wellington night bombers followed through with another raid last night.

(An Italian communique said Allied air raids on the Naples, Salerno and Catanzaro areas caused heavy damage.)

A British cruiser and a destroyer joined in the bombardment of southern Italy by shelling a shore battery near Cape Pellaro. The battery returned ineffective fire.

The air raid on Orte, north of Rome, carried forward an offensive against railroad lines radiating from Rome that began Friday with an attack on Sulmona, 100 miles east of the capital, and continued Saturday with a raid on Terni, 45 miles north and slightly west of Rome.

The Fortresses concentrated their attack on Orte into five action-filled minutes. Returning fliers reported severe damage to the marshalling yards there which were jammed with trucks loaded with war equipment and supplies. A column of smoke rose more than 1,000 feet An engine roundhouse and a transformer station were hit.

Rome Reports Raid Alert of an Hour.

NEW YORK—(INS)—The Italian capital of Rome had an hour-long air raid alert this morning the Budapest radio reported

Although planes were heard overhead, Italian anti-aircraft batteries remained silent in accordance with Rome's appeal for recognition as an open city, the broadcast said. It did not indicate if any bombs were dropped

U S. government monitors heard the broadcast.

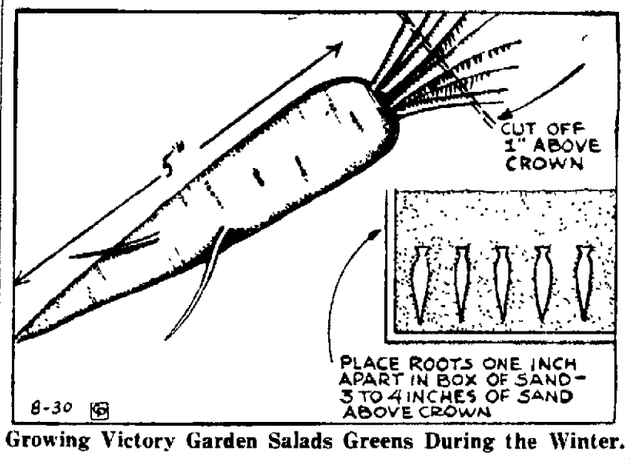
Ciano and Edda Reach Germany.

LONDON—A German underground radio station said today that Count Galeazzo Ciano, former Italian foreign minister and son-in-law of Benito Mussolini, has reached Germany after escaping from police guards in Rome with his wife and three children

The broadcast, intercepted by the London Daily Telegraph listening post, said Ciano had passed through Innsbruck, just north of the Brenner pass, and continued by automobile toward Munich.

At the same time, reports reached Madrid that Clara Petacci, known in Rome as Mussolini's mistress, and a sister had been arrested near Novara, 30 miles west of Milan The sisters, who fled Rome when Mussolini was deposed, were believed held on charges of receiving large sums of money from various government departments under the Fascists regime.

Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH



Growing Victory Garden Salads Greens During the Winter.

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Ass'n.

One of the interesting ways to grow your own salad greens during the winter is to force the roots of chicory, also known as French endive. This forcing produces tender, bleached shoots which are delicious when served with French dressing.

To prepare for such winter salads one must plan to dig up chicory roots from the Victory garden late in the fall but before the ground freezes. Then, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, cut off the tops to an inch above the root crown. Bury the roots in moist sand either in a cold frame or in a root cellar. Diseased roots should not be stored. Care should be exercised when digging not to cut or bruise the roots.

To produce salad heads of Witloof chicory, shorten the parsnip-like roots from below to five to eight inches long Bury them upright in damp sand or soil and cover the tops with about as much more, as illustrated. Keep the temperature at about 60 degrees. In two or three weeks blanched heads five or six inches long may be cut for use.

deck soared the bombers "which pledged, with flaming blasts on Tokyo, America's determination that Pearl Harbor will be avenged."

"And that first raid on Tokyo, I can assure you, is only a small sample of far-bigger raids to come.

"In her death," the cabinet member declared, "the Hornet made doubly sure she would not die. For, besides the new ship we are christening here today, we also have the new aircraft carrier Shangri La.

"Of neither of these two ships can we ask more than was accomplished by the first carrier Hornet. We are certain, however, that there will be new deeds of valor to keep ever-bright the memory of a great name. And we say with confidence and pride:

"The Hornet is dead—long live the Hornet!"

Knox pointed out that the new Hornet is the eighth United States ship to bear the name, said each of her predecessors had "added glory to our flag."

"But, he added, "this date has another significance in the history of our navy. On Aug. 30, 1913, Admiral George Dewey and the navy's general board proposed the creation of a department of naval aviation. Later that same year, this proposal was put into effect by 31-year-old Assistant Secretary of the Navy Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

"In those 30 years, naval aviation has grown to become one of the major striking arms of our fleet in action. And the aviation of the United States navy today is without a superior in all the world."

ers—greatest number ever lost in the war over Europe — but Brig. Gen. Frederick L. Anderson said they nevertheless represented a "great accomplishment."

Twenty-three Fortresses were lost at Regensburg but four crews were known to be safe while the rest were lost in attacking a bearing factory at Schweinfurt.

Both formations fought the enemy "all the way from Antwerp to the Alps," the reports said, and the bombers at Regensburg got at least 140 fighters before they shuttled on to North Africa in their first such run. The Regensburg fliers alone later claimed more than 300 victories. Those that were lost may have had more.

The Schweinfurt raiders got 147 and went back to meet the escorting Thunderbolt fliers who had taken the Regensburg group to the continent.

The heaviest previous fighter toll was 87 knocked down by Fortresses on June 11 Since July 28 every Fortress raid except one has been directed either at aircraft plants or airdromes school and the two junior high schools will again be in operation throughout the year for the convenience of pupils and teachers.

Children entering the first grade must produce a certificate of vaccination against smallpox upon registering at their respective buildings the opening day of school It is also urged that the child be immunized against diphtheria. The child must be six years of age on or before Dec. 31 of this year. Many beginners have attended the pre-school clinic which has been conducted this summer at the city building in the health department.

Madison high school office is open every morning this week from 9:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. for registration, according to Wayne E. Miller, principal. New pupils in this school district, must register before the opening of school, Sept. 7. Classes will be held for a half day only on Sept. 7, with full schedules beginning the next day.

Springfield township school will open Tuesday, Sept. 7 with a regular all-day session. The cafeteria will be opened the first day. Bus transportation will again be in charge of John Newcomer. The office at the school will be open from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. this week for the sale of supplies, conferences and registration of new pupils.

New teachers at Springfield school include Mrs. C. J. Oxley, English and Latin, Miss Lois Baughman, music, Miss Marlene Wierman, art and English; Miss Bertha Heichel, physical education and social science.

The teachers who taught there last year and who will again serve as instructors there are Mrs. Ruth Taylor, first grade, Miss Dorothy McKinney, second; Miss Blanche A. NAZIS ABANDON VITAL TAGANROG BASE IN SOUTH

vanced 3 to 7½ miles to recapture 50 villages, including the railroad junction of Lyubotin, 25 miles west of Kharkov on the Kursk-Kiev line, the war bulletin announced.

The push seemed aimed at bypassing the big Nazi base at Poltava, 85 miles to the south and west of Kharkov, on the north. At the same time another Soviet spearhead further south was pointing in the direction of Krasnograd, in a drive apparently aimed at pinching off the base just as the Nazi bastion at Orel was cut off earlier this summer.

Action on the Kharkov and Voroshilovgrad fronts thus seemed to be rapidly blending into one gigantic drive by which the Russians hoped to reach the eastward bend of the Dnieper river somewhere in the vicinity of Dnieperpropetrovsk, thus imperilling the whole Nazi position in the Donets basin.

The Russian communique indicated that the southern end of the long eastern battle line was at present the focal point of the summer offensive, but the columns which were stalled temporarily in the advance upon the important Nazi base at Bryansk 200 miles southwest of Moscow by unfavorable terrain and heavy German demolitions, were again on the move.

The war bulletin announced that the Red army had advanced nine miles and had captured 40 villages in the sector south of Bryansk

2 Youths Thrown From Car, Run Over By Another Auto

Thrown from their car when it hit a culvert early Sunday morning near Galion, two Galion youths were run over by another motorist as they lay on the highway but escaped serious injury, state highway patrolmen said today.

In the two accidents were Hedley Harrison Dyer, jr., 21, and William Martin, 18, both of 412 Harding way east, Galion. Dyer suffered scalp lacerations and arm injuries. Martin had only cuts and bruises to show for his narrow escape. They were removed to the Galion City hospital in an ambulance.

The two youths were thrown from the car when a tire blew out. While they were lying in the road they were run over by a car driven by Ralph Miller, 27, Harding way east, Galion, who said he was blinded by on-coming car lights and did not see the pair in the road.

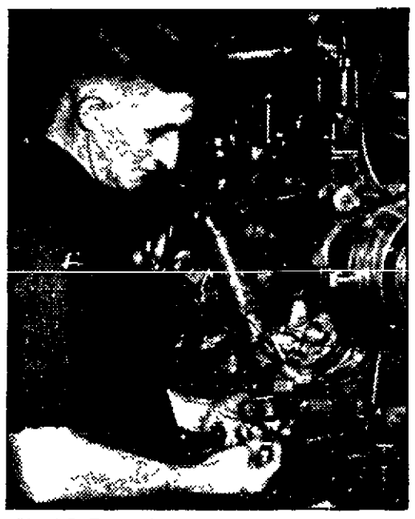
116,170 "Ideas for Victory" FROM G.M. WAR WORKERS

. . . and General Motors Is Rewarding That Spirit at the Rate of a Million Dollars a Year



Floyd C. Fox, a General Motors employe for 27 years, has received two $1,000 War Bonds for suggestions to improve methods of manufacturing parts of an aviation engine.

For a suggestion resulting in simplification of machine gun manufacture, submitted after she had worked in the gun plant only six months, Miss Esther Wrona received a $1,000 War Bond.

In all of its 112 plants in 50 cities of the United States and Canada, General Motors encourages employe suggestions for aiding war production, through a carefully planned system of awards. General Motors has always welcomed suggestions from employes. In fact, there have been similar suggestion plans in various G.M. plants for years, and it was thought that an expansion of these plans in these times would increase war production efficiency.

As a result, G.M. war workers have to date contributed 116,170 written ideas. Yes, written ideas. Many of them good ideas, "Victory Ideas." Nearly 20,000 of them have been winning ideas and have been put into operation. For the open mind policy of General Motors accords a fair test to every suggestion.

Eight thousand four hundred ideas were submitted the very first month. They are now coming in at a monthly rate of better than 10,000, or a yearly rate of one idea for every three workers.

Thus, the individual war workers of General Motors are being given full opportunity to add their bit to the continuing contributions of management, supervision and engineering, in those activities which deal with increasing production, saving materials, lowering costs and promoting plant safety.

Helping Those Who Help America

In the first 15 months' operation of its plan to reward workers for ideas that assist our war effort, General Motors paid out $660,895 in War Bonds and Stamps. And today the awards are being made at the rate of better than a million dollars a year.

General Motors considers that money well spent. It is a merited reward to those who help America. It is a proper incentive for individual initiative. It is one form of appreciation to those who think as they work—who are not content merely to perform the requirements of their jobs.

Something Better, Faster

Americans are always interested in finding ways to do things better and faster.

This American spirit among General Motors men and women—now also increased by the desire to help win Victory and to back the men at the war fronts—accounts for their inspiring performance.

There must be a great inward satisfaction for all who have submitted suggestions, in the realization that they have made some effort out of the ordinary to help win the war.

They can say of themselves, as General Motors says—"Victory Is Our Business!"

SOME FACTS REGARDING G.M EMPLOYE AWARDS

Total suggestions to date	116,170
Present monthly rate of suggestions	10,021
Suggestions put into effect	19,995
Amount in awards to date (purchase price of War Bonds and Stamps)	$660,895
Present yearly rate of awards	$1,087,440
Maximum award (War Bond, face value)	$1,000

The character of the suggestions accepted is indicated by the following proportions of amounts paid in awards:

War production ideas — to increase production, save materials or reduce costs	66.9%
Ideas to increase safety	21.6%
Miscellaneous ideas	11.5%

Details of the General Motors plan to encourage employe suggestions will gladly be sent to interested individuals or companies

We All Can Help!

In addition to their contributions of ideas to help win the war—and to the vital importance of their regular jobs in supplying war materials—General Motors men and women are participating in all forms of war activities. . . . They have set aside more than 10 per cent of their wages for War Bonds! War Bonds buy war materials. And the more we give in materials, the fewer lives we'll give for Victory.

Labor day's best observance this year will be in making it an actual "labor day" instead of a holiday.

Some women admit they are finding a 16-hour day tiring—eight hours work in the shop and another eight hours work at home.

According to the London Daily Mail, Germany's "new secret weapon" is neither new nor secret, so maybe it isn't even a weapon.

More About Those Synthetic Tires

STORIES about synthetic rubber which said that tires made of it would be so much better than those of natural rubber that there would be no comparison, turn out to be "too good to be true."

On the contrary, the synthetic tires coming soon will stand up only under slow driving. The internal heat engendered by fast driving will disintegrate them quickly. Later, perhaps, improvements can be made.

But Americans are gradually becoming accustomed to slower driving, and it will be something just to know that there will be plenty of the new synthetic tires. Jeffers, according to financial writer F. F. Duncan, "has bulled it through in big-time style and two or three months ahead of his own schedule. Then he modestly retires into obscurity and lets Paul Litchfield tell the story."

The story is: "As much synthetic will be available month after next—October, that is—as the country used in peace times; as much in January as all the United Nations used in pre-war."

There is hope for a let-up by spring in the gasoline scarcity, after Big Inch has really shown what it can do all winter, and the other means of oil transportation are also pushed to the utmost. By the time there is gas to drive with, there will be tires to drive on.

Air Corps Reserve for 17-Year-Olds

BOYS who are attracted by the idea of "learning to fly," and who have the necessary physical and mental qualifications, will welcome a new field of opportunity that opens with announcement that the Mansfield Civil Air Patrol plans to enroll 250 seventeen-year-old youths of this area in what is called an "air corps reserve."

Subject to rigid physical and mental examinations, enlistment of youths of 17 will serve to enroll a group of interested young men who will have something definite to look forward to upon completion of their school work. They will maintain what is termed "inactive status" until their 18th birthday anniversary, at which time they will become eligible to start pre-flight training.

Boys who are in high school when they reach the age of 18 will have opportunity to complete the course, and if in college they can continue to the end of the semester, or six months after they become 18.

Either in war or peace, there will be continuing demands for men qualified to fly planes and to fill positions in other branches of aviation. There would be an advantage in having all boys, even those younger than 17, check on physical and mental requirements for this kind of work, so that they may avoid forming habits which might bar them from participation in this program—or even prevent them from flying their own plane, when the time comes for that.

Look, Ernie, Here's a Bouquet

READERS of the current issue of Look magazine will have their high opinion of Ernie Pyle's popular column confirmed in an article which is captioned, "Ernie Pyle, America's Favorite War Correspondent."

So many News-Journal readers have told us of their sustained interest in Ernie's articles from North Africa, and now from Sicily, that we are not surprised to learn that 155 newspapers are using this feature.

The Look article tells a lot about Ernie and how he happens to be doing the "Roving Reporter" job on which he has been engaged in recent years.

"Ernest Taylor Pyle," the article says, "is a shy, rather frail-looking man, with deep-set, quizzical eyes and retreating red hair. He stands five feet, six inches tall and weighs barely 110 pounds. He was born August 3, 1900, on a farm near Dana, Ind."

From Delinquency To Crime

A 17-YEAR-OLD burglar was shot a few nights ago as he attempted to rob an Akron filling station.

He died within a few minutes, saying, "Death is a pleasant thing."

More than the untimely death of a boy gone wrong is involved. Something is seriously wrong when a boy is content to die at 17. And it's not with the boy, alone. It is understandable that death can be welcome to old age, when life has run its course, but how a youth of 17 can anticipate with pleasure the relief death brings is a shock to make young would-be hoodlums pause and think, and to cause adults to consider where they are to blame.

The Akron-Beacon Journal expresses this view, saying, "The boy was long at odds with the law. From juvenile delinquency to adult crime was only a short and easy step. And in the short span of his 17 years he had amassed sufficient hatred of life and its troubles to welcome escape. To those lads who now think breaking the law, destroying property and joyriding in stolen cars is fun, this dying boy bequeaths this parting admonition: 'You, too, might welcome death.'

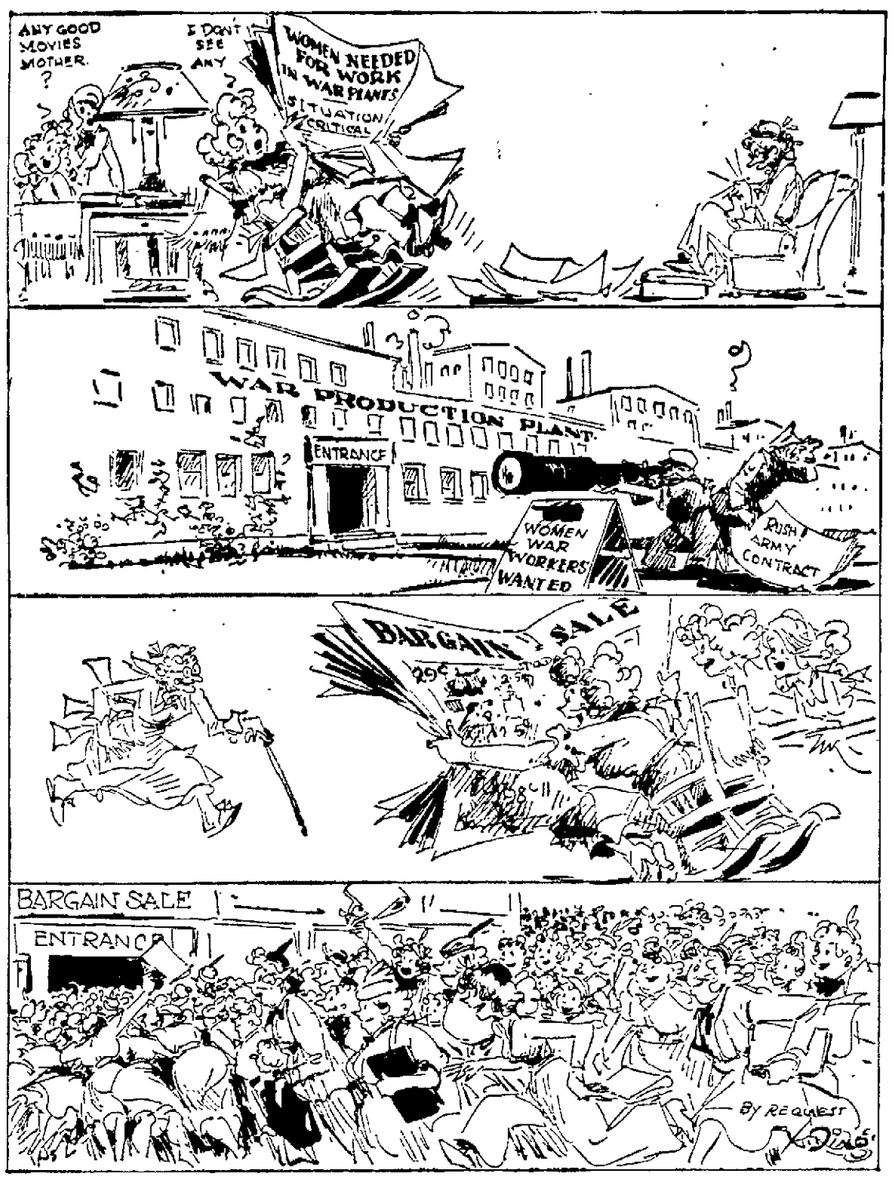
"For adults, his statement is an indictment and a challenge. An indictment, in that somewhere in the short life of this youth someone failed to inculcate in him the proper concept of values. His distorted thinking, his disregard of society's laws might have been corrected under proper conditions. Did he ever have a chance? Was his environment responsible or did the law, in attempting to reform him, only aggravate his anti-social tendencies?

"The joy of living should begin, not end, at 17."

Seven errors in a recent big league baseball game amazed spectators—none of the players having ever held a government job.

Somehow or other, golf doesn't seem so important this summer.

THAT WOMAN-POWER SHORTAGE



Congress to Debate Father Draft

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Capitol observers are giving odds that the first big congressional scrap after the legislators get back will be over the draft of fathers.

The reason is quite simple: War Manpower and Selective Service are making a last ditch stand to avoid a universal draft of labor. By the reclassification of essential (or unessential, if you want to put it that way) jobs and threat to pre-Pearl Harbor fathers to pull them into the armed services, they hope to drive enough men and women into war industries to take up the growing slack in the vital trades.

Some members of congress are up in arms against this kind of double-dealing.

They can make out a whale of a case. By ignoring the seriousness of the essential labor situation altogether, they can concentrate their argument on the contention that the armed forces are already larger than will ever be needed and leave WMC and SS very little ground to stand on.

* * *

SEN. BURTON K. WHEELER, (D.-Mont.) one of the most outspoken in the move to exempt fathers, sums it up this way: "Military men alone are not qualified to be sole judges of how large an army the nation should have.

"When we talk about the size of the army, it is not a question of how many men we can get, but rather how many men we can afford to put into the army without seriously disrupting our supply lines, defense plans and civilian activities at home."

Rep. Andrew J. May, (D-Ky.) chairman of the house military affairs committee, has promised that his committee will give a thorough airing to the whole draft-father picture. There already is more proposed legislation in the congressional hopper than will ever see the light of day, but one bill is almost sure to come in for much discussion. That is the one by Rep. James W. Wadsworth (R.-N. Y.) It's a "universal draft" measure which would provide for registration of both men and women for assignment to the armed forces, essential industry and agriculture—as needed.

EVEN some extremists in the military are admitting privately that we can't use more than a portion of the 10,000,000 or 11,000,000 men now in the armed forces or soon to be. Unless expediency forces the use of vast numbers on the prospective western and southern fronts (something less than a half million men of all Allied Nations were used in North Africa and Sicily) there is hardly a possibility that half of our present planned force will be needed. The war in the Pacific is certain to be, it is said, one principally of sea and air power—not manpower.

That at least, will be the arguments that opponents of the draft-father movement will put up.

"Considering the appeal to the politicians of getting on the "save-the-home" bandwagon, it's almost positive the draft-father movement, even if it should be a military necessity, will find little sympathy "on the Hill."

One Man's Opinion

—By WALTER KIERNAN

WELL, let's see now . . . It says here in this paragraph that we are going to feed the conquered people of Europe after we spring them free from Hitler.

And it says here in this other paragraph that our exports will approximate 10 per cent of our supply through June 1944.

Now there ought to be another paragraph explaining how we can feed 90 per cent of Europe . . . I don't know whether China and Asia and Africa are in here too . . . On 10 per cent of our food supply which is going to be less than last year's food supply.

* * *

And didn't I read or hear somewhere just a week or so ago that old Herb Lehman, who was given the feeding job, hasn't been able to lay his hands on enough food to feed the foreign customers he has right now?

* * *

I'm not cranky or snarling or anything . . . I'm just wondering if we can live up to our promises. And if we can't . . . Why do we make them.

* * *

Is that the way to win friends and influence people?

Listen World!

Obey That Impulse!

YOU WANTED to say a kind thing this morning—BUT YOU DIDN'T DARE. It seemed too impulsive. You didn't know the other persons very well. Maybe they'd think you were funny. Or even impertinent. And secretly laugh or scoff at you. It would be terrible if they did that! The fear of it stung like a blow.

And so you didn't say that kind thing you wanted to say. So often it happens like that. There was that other impulse yesterday. Then you wanted to reveal your heart. You wanted to tell someone about the old worry that has been nagging you, about the sorrow you've never quite learned to bear.

One can't always talk about things like that, but now and then there comes a moment.

You had such a moment, didn't you? A casual acquaintance's casual smile, understanding glance, seemed to open a locked door in your heart. For a moment you had an overwhelming desire to tell all about it—ask for help.

Then, like a black thing swooping down, came the old fear.

Would that stranger understand, or would he think you queer?

Or maybe he'd take advantage of your confession—use it against you, somehow . .

And wouldn't you be ashamed and humiliated the next day when you realized what you had done?

Doubt, fear, suspicion. Instantly the frank impulse was gone. The door in your heart shut, barring out that seemingly friendly soul, shutting you in with your old loneliness and pain.

How often it happens like that: DON'T LET IT!

How often it happens like that! DON'T LET IT!

Obey that impulse!

DARE TO GIVE YOURSELF!

Dare to give the love and laughter that bubble naturally within you.

Every soul you meet is hungry for just such friendliness. Aren't you hungry yourself? Doesn't it quicken you, hearten you, to feel sudden, surprising kindness? Aren't you grateful for it?

Of course you are. And the other fellow will be grateful, too—more grateful than you can know.

That kindly, unexpected word may be a hand stretched down to help him out of hell!

And dare to share your pain! It is not a queer thing to do. It is the greatest compliment you can give another human—that sharing of grief.

There is a sort of sacred communion about it.

Do you remember when, as a child, you took your First Communion; took, with wonder, that bit of bread, that sup of wine? Why? You did not understand.

But, there, in that solemn silence, you felt something you have never felt before. Others were taking the wine and bread, too. You were taking it all together. You could feel the wonder and the silence. You could feel the rare tenderness and togetherness. Never had you felt so near other people before.

Grief is a Communion, too—the bitter, black bread of human agony; the harsh, salt wine of human tears. Those who share that Communion are never after entirely apart.

Dare to share your pain. Do not be proud about your tragedy. Every soul on earth has some pain hidden deep within the heart. Humble your pride and open your heart. Share your grief, or another's as you would share bread and wine. In giving comfort, you will find healing. You will never be so lonely again.

Dare to give yourself, and you will find yourself—there, in that stranger's heart.

Anti-New Deal Delegates Sought For 1944 By Alabama Governor

WASHINGTON—A situation which may bring the entire negro question to the floor of the Democratic national convention is brewing in Alabama.

Alabama's ebullient Gov. Chauncey Sparks is laying plans, first, to elect a pungently anti-New Deal delegation to represent his state in the Democratic convention. Second, he proposes to make a speech on the floor of the convention on the race issue, denouncing Mrs. Roosevelt, and attempting to obtain adoption of a plank in the Democratic platform for white supremacy.

His moves have met with the vigorous opposition of certain of Alabama's liberal Democrats, led by forthright Col. Harry Ayres of the "Anniston Star." They feel that any anti-negro move such as that proposed by Gov. Sparks would do the country no good, would alienate millions of colored voters in New York, Philadelphia and Chicago, and would definitely swing the negro vote securely back to its traditional position in Republican columns.

As a result, one of the hottest pre-convention battles of the South is already on in Alabama over sending an anti-Roosevelt or pro-Roosevelt delegation to the Democratic national convention.

Note: War Department executives are aghast at the Sparks proposal, say it would play directly into the hands of Jap propagandists, already doing a good job of harping on the color issue in the Orient.

Hull's Ambitions.

WHEN Secretary of State Hull went to the White House to demand the ousting of the man who had served as his chief aide for ten long years, the president replied:

"Why don't you fire him, you're the boss over there."

Mr. Hull mumbled that he didn't feel he was the man to do it, so later in the day, Roosevelt called in Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles and broke the news that he was to be relieved of his post.

What the president probably didn't know was that the major break between Welles and Hull had occurred in 1940 over the question of a third term.

Mr. Hull had been led by Jim Farley to believe that the Democratic ticket in 1940 should be Hull for president, Farley for vice-president. Jim had so convinced the elderly secretary of state that a combination of the south and the northern Irish vote could not help but win, that Hull began to enlist the aid of his friends to this end.

When he approached his undersecretary of state, however, Welles had to tell him that he was for a third term for Roosevelt. Mr. Hull considered this rank disloyalty. There had been some other differences between him and Welles but this widened the breech beyond repair.

Note: All during the summer of 1940, Hull kept telling Welles that Willkie was sure to be elected, even through the month of August. It was not until the last day of the campaign that Hull made one good speech for Roosevelt.

Diet for Dogs.

WASHINGTON officials are debating the weighty question of whether pet dogs and cats can be persuaded to sacrifice their "red points" for the war effort.

Already they have been called upon to give up some of their proteins, but now Fido and Puss may be called upon to give up meat entirely, for the duration.

On July 1, the Food Distribution Administration issued an order restricting the protein content of prepared dog food (or cat food) to 24 per cent. Of this, not more than 8 per cent may be protein derived from animals.

The dog food industry—no small industry in the United States—didn't like the order, and a Pet Animal Industry Committee was set up to straighten things out.

Some dog foods have had as much as 60 or 65 per cent animal protein—lungs, udders, and other refuse from the packing plants. For them, a reduction of 8 per cent means overhauling their entire operation.

But even the 8 per cent may disappear, for Food Distribution has asked National Research Council to study the question of whether animal proteins are really essential in the diet of dogs and cats. The council has put its scientists to work in its St. Louis laboratories.

Meantime, Food Distribution has learned that certain veterinarians have experimented with feeding dogs and cats on a diet containing no meat products whatever, but only proteins in the form of cereals.

They report that though the animals don't relish the food, and have to be coaxed to eat it, they actually gain weight.

Purpose of the order and the experiments is to divert the animal products from dog food and put it into mixed feeds for poultry and livestock.

Stage of Utter Exhaustion Reached After Days of Walking and Fighting.

SOMEWHERE IN SICILY—(By Wireless)—Outside of the occasional peaks of bitter fighting and heavy casualties that highlight military operation, I believe the outstanding trait in any campaign is the terrible weariness that gradually comes over everybody.

Soldiers become exhausted in mind and in soul as well as physically. They acquire a weariness that is mixed up with boredom and lack of all gaiety. To lump them all together, you just get damn sick of it all.

The infantry reaches a stage of exhaustion that is incomprehensible to you folks back home. The men in the First Division, for instance, were in the lines 28 days—walking and fighting all that time, day and night.

After a few days of such activity, soldiers pass the point of known human weariness. From then on they go into a sort of second wind daze. They keep going largely because the other fellow does and because you can't really do anything else.

Have you ever in your life worked so hard and so long that you didn't remember how many days it was since you ate last or didn't recognize your friends when you saw them?

I never have either but in the First Division, during that long, hard fight around Troina, a company runner one day came slogging up to a certain captain and said, excitedly, "I've got to find Captain Blank right away. Important message."

The captain said, "But I am Captain Blank. Don't you recognize me?"

And the runner said, "I've got to find Capt. Blank right away." And he went dashing off. They had to run to catch him.

MEN in battle reach that stage and still go on and on. As for the rest of the army—supply troops, truck drivers, hospital men, engineers—they too become exhausted but not so inhumanly. With them and with us correspondents it's the ceaselessness, the endlessness of everything that finally worms its way through you and gradually starts to devour you.

It's the perpetual dust choking you, the hard ground wracking your muscles, the snatched food sitting ill on your stomach, the heat and the flies and dirty feet and the constant roar of engines and the perpetual moving and the never settling down and the go, go, go, night and day, and on through the night again. Eventually it all works itself into an emotional tapestry of one dull, dead pattern—yesterday is tomorrow and Troina is Rendazzo and when will we ever stop and, God, I'm so tired.

I've noticed this feeling has begun to overtake the war correspondents themselves. It is true we don't fight on and on like the infantry, that we are usually under fire only briefly and that, indeed, we live better than the average soldier. Yet our lives are strangely consuming in that we do live primitively and at the same time must delve into ourselves and do creative writing.

That statement may lay me open to wise cracks, but however it may seem to you, writing is an exhausting and tearing thing. Most of the correspondents actually work like slaves. Especially is this true of the press association men. A great part of the time they go from dawn till midnight or 2 a. m.

I'm sure they turn in as much toil in a week as any newspaperman at home does in two weeks. We travel continuously, move camp every few days, eat out, sleep out, write wherever we can and just never catch up on sleep, rest, cleanliness, or anything else normal.

The result is that all of us who have been with the thing for more than a year have finally grown befogged. We are grimy, mentally as well as physically. We've drained our emotions until they cringe from being called out from hiding. We look at bravery and death and battlefield waste and new countries almost as blind men, seeing only faintly and not really wanting to see at all.

Just in the past month the old-timers among the correspondents have been talking for the first time about wanting to go home for a while. They want a change, something to freshen their outlook. They feel they have lost their perspective by being too close for too long.

I am not writing this to make heroes of the correspondents because only a few look upon themselves in any dramatic light whatever. I am writing it merely to let you know that correspondents too can get damn sick of war—and deadly tired.

A Farmer's Diary

By CALVIN A. BYERS

Go Back to School!

SCHOOL will begin next week. Six thousand boys and girls will be enrolled in classes of our home city. Perhaps thirty million will go to school throughout the land—filling buildings that have been vacant all summer.

But some who have planned to enter high school will not be there; and some who have only a year or two to finish their course are debating whether to go to school or to continue work at the jobs they have held all summer in office or shop or factory. To these I would like to say a word.

You are a bright boy or girl, who gets along "swell" on the job. Thirty or forty dollars a week is a lot of money to you. It looks and sounds big, and you say you cannot afford to miss such a fine chance . . . it may never happen again in a lifetime.

Neither will your youth or your high school days come again. You have a choice to make—you will have them all your life. Simply drifting with the current of the times may not be a wise choice for you, in the long run. Think it through.

How big a man or woman are you capable of being? Will your present job satisfy you? For how long? When a bigger job comes along that requires broader knowledge and training, and a classmate of yours who has finished school is given it, how will you feel?

The best part of school is not that it trains you for a job—although that is important. A good school will give you a basis for understanding yourself, with relation to living in a highly complex world that needs keen eyes, trained minds, sound bodies and wise spirits with ideals of service. At school you will have your chance at the wisdom of all the ages. You will climb upon the shoulders of those who have been most useful in the world . . . you will get a new outlook on the universe.

Go back to school. Learn to understand and enjoy the world you live in—flowers, birds, animals, plants, good music, the lives and works of brave, good men and women. Go back to school. You will be a force there. The taste of the workaday world that you have had will give you confidence in yourself. But use it as a stepping stone to something more. Live deep and grow—for young minds grow so much easier and more beautifully than old ones do. And the more you know the more you can mean to the future!
